ANTITRUST SUIT AGAINST GOOGLE FOR STIFLING COMPETITION

The US Justice Dept filed a lawsuit on Tuesday alleging Google has been abusing its dominance in online search to stifle competition

REGULATORS WANT TO BREAK UP TECH GIANTS

According to reports, US regulators are keen to break up tech giants to end their monopoly. And Google is their first target. The case is expected to be filed in federal court in Washington, D.C. Don't be lax as virus is still on the prowl: PM

Urges people not to let their guard down in festival season, says vaccines are on track

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

TAKING a grim view of widespread flouting of Covid-19 protocols such as wearing masks and following social distancing norms, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday cautioned people not to lower their guard against the virus till vaccines are available in the country.

"Work on developing vaccines is going on at a brisk pace and all preparations are being made to make them available to everybody in the country in shortest possible time," the PM said.

Modi said he has come across videos and photographs showing people flouting Covid-19 protocols. He called for responsible behavrour, saying the lockdown has been lifted but the virus is still in the air.

Citing the examples of European countries and the US, the PM highlighted how coronavirus cases have gone up there after a phase of recovery, as a direct fallout of lifting restrictions and resumption of economic activities.

The second wave of Covid-19 has forced some European countries to re-impose restrictions. France, for instance, has imposed night curfew in nine cities while limiting gathering to a maximum of 10 persons at a time. Spain has clamped a state of emergency for 15 days in Madrid.

Netherlands, Denmark, Belgium, Germany and Italy have all taken restrictive measures to combat the surge in cases.

Plasma therapy to be scrapped

Plasma therapy, may soon be discontinued as a treatment for Covid-19, the Centre said on Tuesday. The decision was taken after finding the therapy doesn't help patients | P9

Modi's address to the nation has come at a time when a large part of the country is celebrating festivals while Bihar and Madhya Pradesh are in poll mode.

Last week, an experts panel had predicted, using a mathematical model, that India is past its peak in Covid-19 cases. The panel also warned of a surge in cases if Covid-19 protocols such as wearing masks and maintaining social distancing in public places are not followed strictly.

Quoting statistics, the PM also said that India has done well in combating the pandemic as the country reported only 5,500 cases per million in contrast to over 25,000 per million in the US, Brazil and other countries. Besides, India reported only 83 per million fatalities against 680 per million in the US, Brazil and other countries, he added.

Punjab builds MSP into own farm bills, rejects Central laws

Rajasthan, too, plans its own farm bill

Jaipur: Hours after the Punjab assembly unanimously passed a resolution and bills against the Centre's farm laws, Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Tuesday said his government, too, will bring a similar bill against the central laws

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

PUNJAB on Tuesday became the first state in India to formally reject the Centre's contentious farm laws, with the state Assembly unanimously passing a resolution and three bills against the Central laws.

The three bills are: the Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Special Provisions and Punjab Amendment Bill; the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services (Special Provisions and Punjab Amendment) Bill; and the Essential Commodities (Special Provisions and Punjab Amendment) Bill.

The first bill says no sale of paddy and wheat in the state will be valid unless paid equal to or above the minimum support price (MSP). The proposed law also calls for a three-year jail term and a fine in case anybody compels a farmer to sell his agricultural produce below MSP.

The second piece of legislation makes it mandatory for those entering into contract farming with farmers to pay the MSP. It also stipulates a three-year jail term to those who violate the Act.

According to the third bill, all powers to fix stock limits of food grains are with the state government and not the Centre. It also envisions imprisonment of three years and a fine for those who force a farmer to sell his agricultural produce below MSP. P10

Covid-19 hospitals in B'luru see admissions dip by 40 pc

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

SINCE October 13, doctors working in designated Covid-19 hospitals in Bengaluru have been letting out a small sigh of relief every day, looking at the dip in the number of patients coming for admission. Figures obtained by TNIE from some of these hospitals show a dip of almost 40 per cent in the inflow of Covid-19 patients.

"It is definitely a relief for us. We have been working day and night to manage the situation. While the case load had lessened of late, due to people with mild symptoms isolating themselves at home, now the dip in numbers has brought us more respite," said a senior doctor from Victoria Hospital who is working with Covid-19 patients.

Confirming this, Dr Jayanti C R, Dean-cum-Director of Bangalore Medical College and Research Institute (BMCRI), which governs Victoria Hospital, one of the main designated institutions for Covid-19 treatment, said, "In the last one week alone, we have seen a dip of about 40 per cent in admissions. We are keeping our fingers crossed and hope that the number doesn't go up after the festival," she said.

At Lady Curzon and Bowring Hospital and the newly inaugurated Charaka hospital too, the number of admissions has reduced by almost 50 per cent, according to Dean-cum-Director Dr Manoj Kumar. "While most of the beds were full last Tuesday, we have a vacancy of about 30 beds at Bowring Hospital as of today, and about 35 beds at Charaka," he pointed out. P3

Doctor who called out no-rape UP spin loses job

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

WAS a temporary doctor at the Jawaharlal Nehru Medical College Hospital (JNMCH) in Aligarh denied service extension because of he contradicted the state police's theory in the alleged Hathras gangrape and murder case?

While the UP Police had, on October 1, cited a forensic lab report — that said there was no trace of semen or sperm on the victim's samples — to argue she was not raped, Dr Mohammad Azimuddin Malik had joined issue on October 5, saying the samples were lifted 11 days after her assault and had no evidentiary value. His comments were reported in a section of the media.

Dr Malik was a temporary Casualty Medical Officer at the JNMCH run by the Aligarh Muslim University and his tenure ended on October 10. He had sought extension of service till November 8 since another doctor was on Covid leave till then. But the AMU rejected the request.

Dr Malik could not be contacted for his comments.

Yatnal stokes row on BSY as CM, says time up

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayapura, Bengaluru, Hubballi

NO stranger to controversies, Vijayapura City MLA and former Union Minister of State Basanagouda Patil Yatnal kicked up a storm after he claimed that B S Yediyurappa's days as Chief Minister are numbered.

Admitting publicly that his relationship with Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa is already souring, Yatnal, who has made no secret of his displeasure with Yediyurappa, claimed that the central leadership was unhappy with Yediyurappa and he was unlikely to remain in the Chief Minister's seat for long. Yatnal's remarks were met with a host of reactions from party leaders — ranging from retort to subtle warning.

After laying the foundation stone for development works in Vijayapura city on Monday evening, Yatnal claimed, "Yediyurappa's time is up. Soon, he will lose his chair because even the central leadership has had enough with him." Miffed over funds not being allocated to his constituency, Yatnal accused Yediyurappa of withholding grants made by the previous government for development works in Vijayapura. "Funds of Rs 125 crore had come (for constituency), but our own CM took it back. After that, a fight has started between us. Katti (Umesh) rightly pointed out that Yediyurappa behaves like the Chief Minister of Shivamogga, and not of Karnataka," he carped.

Continuing his attack, Yatnal claimed that Yediyurappa's successor will be from North Karnataka. P4

IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL, COLLEGE

Meeting with CM in three days; students will be given offline/online choice | Experts say that closure of schools is hurting education, it's time to reopen

Colleges to open in 1st week of Nov

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

WHILE there is no official announcement yet about the start of the academic year offline for college students, top officials from the education department have indicated that colleges will reopen offline in the first week of November, and preparations for the same are on.

Deputy Chief Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan, who is also Higher Education Minister, told reporters on Monday that the department is preparing to reopen colleges in November. UGC has come out with an advisory for state governments to reopen colleges, he said.

The DyCM had said this will be confirmed after a meeting with Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, which is scheduled in three days, a source said.

A top source from the department confirmed to TNIE that the department is looking to open colleges in the first week of November. However, students will be given a choice between offline and online classes, the source added.

A committee of current vice-chancellors of universities, that met on Saturday, also reportedly suggested that classes be held on Sundays too, if need be.

"The committee can only recommend how colleges can be opened, and not the schedule, which has to be decided by the UGC and government. A hybrid model of education, instead of going completely offline, will help decongest the campus and hostels," a vice-chancellor told TNIE.

In the meantime, the department has also mandated Covid-19 tests for teaching and non-teaching staff in private, aided and government degree colleges that come under the ambit of the state education department. Personnel in the office of the joint director have also been asked to undergo the test.

The official said there is no confirmation whether students will be subject to it before commencement of offline classes. Meanwhile, AICTE has allowed engineering colleges to start the academic session from December 1. It was earlier scheduled for November 1.

AICTE has also extended admission deadlines for first-year courses in engineering colleges to November 30. This is owing to "prolonged emergent conditions and requests from state governments and ongoing admission processes of IITs and NITs".

'Lift lockdown on schools, start classes with safety measures'

We are not insisting on compulsory physical classroom presence for MBA students from November 2. But if some students want to be present on campus, they will be allowed in classroom sessions, library, computer labs, and also to meet teachers to clear doubts, with sufficient safeguards. We don't want to inconvenience students.'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

EDUCATIONISTS in Karnataka are urging the government to reopen schools in a phased manner. In a statement, at least 18 education and health experts stated that it is absolutely essential that the complete school lockdown be reversed. Pointing out that this doesn't mean that all schools have to go back to the pre-pandemic normal, they said school opening needs to be phased, and various classes/sections can open on different days, and school timings can be limited and staggered.

"These measures can keep the number of students at levels that allow for physical distancing. Water, soap, sanitiser, thermal sensors, masks must be provided to schools in adequate quantities by the government, along with support from local health centres, to allow for a hygienic environment. This is a necessary investment to keep our children safe. "Even two days a week with limited hours of schooling is a huge improvement over not having school at all, or having some version of online education," the statement said.

Education expert Dr Niranjanaradhya V P stated that rejecting the Vidyagama scheme could prove fatal for children of economically weaker sections of society.

He stated that with families affected by the pandemic, government schools not only provide education, but also act as nurturing centres, providing hot milk, midday meals, health checks etc.

"This is not a good sign. Their minimum support has been taken away. About 37% of the state's population comprises children, and those affected by Covid is less than 1%. I urge the Chief Minister and education minister to restart the programme," Niranjanaradhya told TNIE.

"With or without lockdown, the number of Covid cases is not going to be much different because we don't have systems in place to address a pandemic. We need to work on health education, sanitation, personal hygiene and other protective measures.

"If the number of cases in children goes up, the solution is to ensure better public health education, that children wash hands, and safe distance is adopted. The solution is not to shut down all systems that offer education to children.

"The fact that many of these children are also from vulnerable communities means that there are multiple barriers to education. It's time the government addressed these rather than just washing hands," says Dr Sylvia Karpagam, Public Health doctor and researcher.

Restart Vidyagama, Civil society speaks up

A collective of educationists, rights activists, doctors, lawyers and professionals on Tuesday asked the government to resume the Vidyagama project, the programme initiated by the Karnataka government, in a voluntary and decentralised manner. "Anything else would compound the harm we are inflicting on children, especially those from the marginalised groups," they said. The collective, in its plea for decentralisation, has recommended that quarantining, school closure etc can be decided at the taluk or gram panchayat level, to allow greater flexibility.

Mgmt college campuses likely to open soon

Bengaluru: Some management institutions are planning to reopen classes on campus from November 2. Prof J Phillip, chairman, Xavier Institute of Management and Entrepreneurship, and former IIM director, told TNIE, "We are planning to reopen for physical classes for 180 of our first-year MBA students from November 2," he told TNIE. Out of 180 students, 57 have confirmed they will return. XIME, like many other institutions, went online from July-August onwards, and one semester was completed in October. The college is preparing for the new normal with masks, sanitiser in classrooms and staff canteens, and proper social distance. The staff are undergoing orientation sessions too.

Police intimidating us with FIR: Citizens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE residents of Indiranagar are protesting against an FIR filed against them by traffic police for allegedly damaging the footpath during a tree plantation drive on 100 Feet Road. They have alleged that the traffic police are misusing their power and intimidating residents.

ICIN said, "A plantation drive was planned on 100 Feet Road in Indiranagar on October 2, and work was to start on October 1. But it was found that the footpath was used for parking. The issue was raised with the Inspector and ACP, Traffic (east) Kavitha. But the ACP said that pedestrians need only three feet space to walk and the rest of the space can be used for parking. Not impressed, we escalated the matter to DCP (east) Narayan and Joint Commissioner Ravikanthe Gowda, who got the vehicles cleared from the footpath. While the event on October 2 went on smoothly, a complaint was filed against our members."

ICIN members said that earlier, the police had said that it was only a non-cognisable offence complaint, and only on October 20, they got to know it was an FIR. "We have recorded a conversation with the police and BBMP, assistant engineer, Domlur, Lakshmanappa, where they have stated that the complaint was filed at the behest of ACP. They are not even sharing the FIR copy and have asked us to file an RTI to get it. We requested that the complaint be dropped. But the inspector said that he will discuss the matter with the higher-ups," the member said.

The police have named Nandihal as an accused. The complainant is BBMP Assistant Engineer Lakshmanappa. Despite repeated attempts, ACP Kavitha's pnone was not reachable and DCP Narayan's number was switched off.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Social engagements can help you forget your cares and woes, but you need to be sure in your own mind that you're not running away from anything. If you are intending to make a break, the next few days may force the issues. It could be good to clear the air.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Artistic types will find much to stimulate their imaginations this week - and that includes most of you. Work pressures will soon pass and there'll be opportunities to repay favours and complete non-essential tasks. Plus, a family member is about to apologise. What could be better?

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You stand a reasonable chance of reaching an amicable conclusion to a number of personal disputes. There is still much to be said at work before you can be sure where you stand, and the rapidly approaching lunar drama will help you along: and about time, too.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Don't make the mistake of equating emotional stability with financial security. The two are quite separate, and although it is often difficult to work out a plan of action in each, that is precisely what you must do now. Perhaps more experienced friends can help.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Just to look ahead, your mood is about to become quite self-sacrificing. It seems as if you may become involved in a charitable venture of some sort, and today there could be indications of what is to come. But then, at the moment, every day brings pointers to the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You should spend as much time as is necessary dealing with routine chores, and leave no stone unturned. You can rest assured that the more you accomplish today, the more time you'll have to deal with personal developments when the moment comes.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You have a great deal on your mind, but that's not the point. You also have many opportunities to get out and enjoy yourself. Please realise that there's nothing wrong with a touch of escapism now and then! Other people might expect you to stand and fight - but they might be wrong.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Domestic affairs certainly require some close attention today, and it will pay to be businesslike. There is little to be gained from being sentimental, or by allowing your heart to over-rule your head. People you live with need their orders - and you might be the person to give them!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You've done well, there's no doubt about that, even though your critics might not agree. You certainly have much to live up to, but don't be too hard on yourself. Other people will step in and lend a hand, but it's up to you to make the first move: if you don't ask, you won't get!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
This is a good time to remember that sometimes life can be managed in line with timeless ethical and religious truths. Adopt the moral high ground, but don't insist that others share your beliefs. What pays, at the moment, is a little extra tolerance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
New investment possibilities are in the air, but there may be less of a sense of urgency than recently. There's no reason why you shouldn't cut down on work and have an easy day - unless you've commitments you can't avoid. It's all a question of finding the right balance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Life might be simple - but it's never straightforward. You may feel like spending some the day by yourself, but friends might have different ideas. You should try to divide your time between giving yourself the attention you deserve and giving others the affection they crave. I know you can do it!

Court: Create awareness about mask disposal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the state government to take steps to make the common man aware about disposal of masks as per the guidelines of the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB).

Passing the order, a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Aravind Kumar said the KSPCB issued a circular on August 24 regarding the implementation of the guidelines of the Central Pollution Control Board about disposal of waste from the houses of Covid patients. However, the state has not created awareness in this regard, it said.

The bench also said the issue has a great deal of importance in a city like Bengaluru with a population of 1.30 crore. Therefore, the state should consider it as of utmost importance and give wide publicity for the benefit of the common man immediately, the bench said while asking the state to give training to pourakarmikas to treat this waste as biomedical waste and handle accordingly.

The petitioner's counsel pointed out that oxygen suppliers were charging ₹20-25 per cubic meter as transportation charges over and above the price of oxygen being supplied to hospitals as the state had failed to fix transportation charges. The bench said suppliers seem to be profiteering due to non-implementation of the order passed by the Union government on the matter. The state government should fix transportation charges on or before October 24, the bench ordered.

Sleep tight, build up immunity to keep Covid at bay

Experts say sleep deprivation could lead to respiratory disorders like cold, flu, pneumonia

IFFATH FATHIMA & RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

BINGE-watching and battling insomnia? Beware viral infections. Getting seven to eight hours of sleep a day is considered ideal for the body to function optimally, and sleep deprivation could result in catching common cold, influenza, pneumonia and other respiratory infections. By not getting adequate sleep, experts state that chances of developing viral infections like common cold, influenza are high, and this could lead to a higher risk of Covid-19.

> Sleep deprivation prior to influenza vaccination has been shown to decrease the efficacy of the vaccine
> Dr Vivekanand Padegal, Pulmonologist

Experts say, during sleep, the immune system releases proteins called cytokines, which help promote sleep, but sleep deprivation might decrease production of the protective cytokines, which are crucial in protecting the body from infections.

"Lack of sleep can increase susceptibility to infections and also render our body relatively immunodeficient to fight viral infections, especially Covid-19. Experimental studies on humans have shown acute sleep deprivation blunts the immune response to flu antigen, thus the production of antibodies, emphasizing the significance of sleep and its important role in immune function," said Dr Srikanta JT, consultant, Paediatric Pulmonology and Sleep Medicine, Aster CMI Hospital.

Dr Shantanu Tandon, Sleep Apnea specialist, Sakra World Hospital, stated that there is definite proof that when one sleeps, certain cells called NK cells (Natural killer cells) are formed. "These cells help kill viruses and even precancerous or cancerous cells. When we lose sleep, a deficiency of these NK cells can make us more prone to viral infections and pneumonia. This will have a direct correlation with susceptibility to Covid and when we sleep less, there is decreased formation of antibodies."

Experts stated that with individuals who have lack of sleep, the vaccines given to them have lower efficacy. "Sleep deprivation prior to influenza vaccination has been shown to decrease the efficacy of the vaccine. This would go with decreased immunity caused by sleep deprivation, as the vaccine effect from the body is immunity to the vaccination. Though not formally studied, it would be easy to extrapolate that sleep deprivation would increase the chances of developing Covid. This would also likely extend to the effect on any future corona vaccine," said Dr Vivekanand Padegal, Director, Pulmonology, Fortis Hospital.

Fewer cases rekindle Dasara spirit

KARTHIK K K @ Mysuru

MYSURU, which took a giant leap in Covid-19 positive cases and fatalities last month, seems to have seen a huge turnaround as positivity rate in the district has come down to 7.8% this week compared to over 21% the same period last month.

This has given a renewed hope to Mysureans who were gripped in fear amid the Dasara festivities during the pandemic. According to data available with The New Indian Express, the weekly Covid positivity rate of Mysuru was 20.1% during September 16 to 22 which has come down to 7.8 per cent during October 14 to 19, especially at a time when the Dasara celebration started in the district from October 17.

What more comes as a huge sigh of relief is the drop in fatality rate which was 2.5% during September 16 and 22 which is now down to 1.1 per cent between October 14 and 19.

Positivity rate in Mysuru

September 16 to 22	October 14 to 19
20.1%	7.8%

Fatality rate

September 16 to 22	October 14 to 19
2.5%	1.1%

RT-PCR tests

September 16 to 2	October 14 to 19
6,299	21,054

Even the Covid testing especially RT-PCR tests have been ramped up in the district in the wake of tourist arriving in the district. Over 6,299 tests were conducted during September 16 to 22 while over 21,054 tests have been done in the last one week.

Deputy Commissioner Rohini Sindhuri said, "Low testing and availability of oxygen beds in the district were a major concern. After assuming charge as the DC, our main focus was to reduce the death rate. We ramped up the testing, nodal officers were appointed in the city for better coordination and daily review was held with all. A lot of hard work was put in the first two weeks which has yielded results now," she said.

She said, "We hope to continue this but the rising influx of people for Dasara is a cause of concern and we are focusing on handling the situation in any eventuality."

Be cautious during festive season: Experts

HOWEVER, ICUs in many of the hospitals are still full. Dr C Nagaraja, Director of Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Chest Diseases (RGICD), said, "There has been a considerable dip in numbers across the state. The positivity rate has also come down. Patients with Severe Acute Respiratory Illness (SARI) are more in danger and also need oxygen. Hence, admissions here were really high in the last few months, but gladly we have noticed a considerable dip by almost 40 per cent in admissions at RGICD," he explained.

The instances of people succumbing to SARI within two to three hours of being admitted has also come down, pointed out Dr Nagaraja. "When SARI patients come to the ICU, almost 92 per cent of them test positive. Earlier, last-minute admissions, leading to deaths, were high. Now, that is not the case. We are having lesser people with such complications to be admitted in the ICU," he said.

But medical experts warn that it is extremely important that people don't let their guard down during the festive season. "Presently, we have been seeing a dip from about 5,000 cases in the city drop to 3,800 daily. But this can go up drastically if people are not responsible," cautioned Dr Manoj Kumar.

YATNAL'S OUTBURST: VENTING ANGER OR AIRING HIS AMBITION?

Could be leveraging for position, projecting himself as strong Lingayat leader from N K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

SENIOR BJP leader and MLA Basangouda Patil Yatnal had on Monday complained of not receiving sanctioned funds for development work in his constituency (Vijayapura), and took potshots at Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa, while saying discussions were on within the party over change in leadership. However, party insiders say although not getting funds could be a reason, there is more to it than meets the eye.

Yatnal, a Lingayat strongman from Vijayapura known for his hardline Hindutva views, is seen as a very ambitious leader who has felt slighted over not being given prominence in the state government. He is said to be positioning himself as a strong Lingayat leader from North Karnataka.

This is not the first time the former Union minister, who was part of the Vajpayee government, hit out at the CM. Earlier this year, too, he had openly expressed displeasure over not getting funds for development works, and had said that Yediyurappa was only the Chief Minister, while Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah were his leaders. He had even criticised Union ministers from Karnataka.

Although Yatnal denied having ministerial aspirations, party insiders said not being part of the government is one of the reasons why he and some other senior leaders from the Lingayat community are miffed with Yediyurappa.

Yatnal, Umesh Katti and Murugesh Nirani, all Lingayat leaders from North Karnataka, are capable of winning elections on their own and felt they had to be in the ministry when the government was formed. They were upset when newcomers from Congress and JDS – and even those from BJP who had lost the 2018 elections -- were given important positions at the cost of keeping out loyalists like themselves who had worked for the party in the 2018 elections. Only Katti has been assured of being being included in the ministry by the CM.

"Not being given prominence in the government despite being senior leaders and winning elections on their own is one of the major reasons for the heartburn among some seniors. But they have to understand the CM's compulsions," a party insider said, adding that like in 2008, the BJP had fallen short of winning majority on its own in the 2018 elections, and the CM had to accommodate those who helped government formation in the ministry.

BJP leaders insist no change in leadership

"THE high command, including the PM, have previously said that the next CM will be from this region. Ninety-five per cent MLAs (in BJP) will be us (from north Karnataka). People at the top have also understood this. The change of leadership is almost final," Basanagouda Patil Yatnal remarked.

Yatnal's remarks came on the eve of the CM's aerial survey of Vijayapura to assess the situation in flood-affected regions and on a day the latter inaugurated various development works in his home turf Shivamogga.

Yatnal's public outburst put BJP leaders in a tight spot, who tried to salvage or downplay the situation. "For the next three years, Yediyurappa will remain our Chief Minister," said state BJP president Nalin Kumar Kateel. Deputy Chief Minister Dr Ashwathnarayana too spoke on similar lines and added that there was no discussion about change in leadership.

> The CM post is not vacant in Karnataka, the party is in power because of all regions of the state
> MP Renukacharya

Revenue Minister R Ashoka too said, for about next three years, the Chief Minister seat is not vacant, it is under Yediyurappa's leadership we fought elections and came to power and it is under his leadership this government will complete its term.

Meanwhile, the CM's political secretary and close aide, M P Renukacharya, was not as subtle. "The CM post is not vacant in Karnataka, the party is in power because of all regions of the state. We are for the development of North Karnataka. The leadership is decided by the high command and Yediyurappa is functioning effectively. All the MLAs are with BJP and Yediyurappa. Are they with you (Yatnal)? You are daydreaming. Don't dream," Renukacharya lashed out at Yatnal in a series of tweets.

Reacting to the developments, Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah quipped, it was true that discussions have been taking place in BJP to remove Yediyurappa from the CM's post, but that he was not aware of when it will happen or who will replace him. "We will not try to bring down the government. If it falls due to their (BJP) internal fighting, we are ready to fight the election," the Congress leader said.

BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel greets BJP's RR Nagar candidate Munirathna at a press conference in Bengaluru on Tuesday

Muniratna must be disqualified: Cong plaint to poll panel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Congress on Tuesday lodged a complaint against Muniratna, BJP candidate for Rajarajeshwari Nagar bypolls. In their complaint to the Election Commission of India, the Congress demanded Muniratna's disqualification over alleged electoral malpractice. The party accused its former MLA and now BJP candidate of bribing voters with Rs 5,000 to favour him in the upcoming November 3 bypolls.

In its four-page complaint filed with Chief Electoral Officer Sanjiv Kumar, the Congress also alleged that Muniratna and his party workers had also been seizing voter ID cards of those unwilling to vote for him to sabotage free and fair elections.

"There is reason to believe that the BJP candidate has spent more than Rs 2.50 crore towards his election campaign and most of the money has been spent in paying the voters and purchasing their votes for the forthcoming election. Some of these voters have even complained to the ECI in this regard," the Congress said in its complaint. This is the second petition in less than one week that Congress has submitted to the ECI. The Congress urged the ECI to disqualify Muniratna over malpractices as well as unaccounted expenditure.

Interestingly, in its complaint, the Congress deemed Muniratna a repeat offender and referred to 2018 assembly polls when Muniratna was booked after ECI officials found fake voter ID cards in properties belonging to his aides. Muniratna, however, in 2018 was a Congress candidate from RR Nagar and the party had defended him in the alleged scam even as BJP had accused him of attempting to rig the electoral process. Two years down the line, Muniratna is now a BJP candidate in the same constituency.

Party will take action against those speaking against CM: Ravi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hubballi

THE BJP central leadership will take disciplinary action at the right time against those who make controversial remarks against Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, said BJP national general secretary C T Ravi, here on Tuesday, while referring to statements made by party leader Basanagouda Patil Yatnal.

Ravi was in Hubballi for election campaign.

"Chief Minister Yediyurappa is our leader and the party has chosen him. Whatever may be Yatnal's reason to speak against the chief minister, I will not comment on it," said Ravi, who was here to campaign for Graduates' constituency candidate S V Sankanur.

"Soon after the BJP came to power in the state, it successfully managed the flood situation last year and Covid pandemic this year," he said.

Because of the pandemic, the financial condition of the government has not returned to normal and there are no funds to allocate to MLAs for development of their constituencies. Legislators should use the available funds judiciously, he said.

He was confident that the party candidates will win all the Assembly bypoll and council elections.

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa at Shikaripura on Tuesday | SHIMOGANANDAN

On home turf, CM Yediyurappa ignores political questions

MARX TEJASWI @Shivamogga

DURING his three-day visit to home constituency Shikaripura to launch various development works and take part in family programmes, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa managed to avoid political questions, including one on former close aide Basanagouda Patil Yatnal.

Yatnal has claimed that Yediyurappa will soon be replaced by a leader from North Karnataka. Yediyurappa, who visited Shikaripura after around seven months, only spoke of the government's plans.

On his arrival on Sunday, and until he left for Bengaluru on Tuesday, he did not utter a single word about political developments, except exuding confidence that BJP candidates will win the RR Nagar and Sira bypolls. He also pointed out that his son Vijayendra is uniting workers to ensure the victory of the party candidate in Sira.

However, he managed to avoid questions on criticism of the Opposition as well as his own party. On Monday, Yediyurappa refused to comment on the demand of Opposition leader Siddaramaiah, that the government implement the caste census report.

On Tuesday too, Yediyurappa also refused to reply to Yatnal's comment that the party high command and PM Narendra Modi are fed up with BSY and he will be replaced soon.

In a video, Yatnal purportedly said BSY will be replaced in a few days. "BJP leaders become CM because of the support of north Karnataka as the party does not have a good presence in districts like Mandya and Chamarajanagar. Thanks to around 100 MLAs from north Karnataka that the BJP gets majority."

High-voltage campaign for MLC polls begins

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Karwar

AS the countdown for the elections in Western Graduates' constituency begins, the district is witnessing a high-voltage campaigning with party leaders in the district campaigning for their respective candidates.

The BJP has fielded Sankannur for the second time. Leaders like Jagadish Shettar, District in charge Minister Shivaram Hebbar and Karwar-Ankola MLA Rupali Naik have been campaigning for him in Sirsi, Honnavar, Kumta and Bhatkal.

R V Deshpande, who campaigned for the Congress candidate in Sirsi, called upon his colleagues to work towards the party's victory.

Bhinanna Naik, the party's district president described Kuberappa as a great organiser who deserved to be in the Legislative Council. Kuberappa said he would strive to ensure more appointments in the government and that his priority would be to get enough grants as to as many colleges as possible.

District Incharge Minister Shivaram Hebbar and Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar said their candidate has worked to fulfil people's expectations. Sankannur, said, "All these years, we were in the opposition and we did our best in that role. Now, our government is at the helm of the state affairs. I can perform better. Give me another term," he appealed to the voters.

While wife campaigns for BJP, hubby contests as rebel

Tumakuru: While Hiriyuru BJP MLA Poornima Srinivas, daughter of late A Krishnappa, has been campaigning aggressively for party's Sira candidate Dr C M Rajesh Gowda, her husband D T Srinivas is contesting from the South East Graduate constituency for a Council seat as a 'rebel'. After the BJP picked Chidananda M Gowda as its candidate, an upset Srinivas filed his nomination as an independent. Now, he is confident of winning the election. "I have been in touch with voters for over one-and-a-half decades and I deserved to get the BJP ticket. All AHINDA community votes will come in my favour," he said Srinivas will likely get the community votes as he is a backward class leader. Also, many AHINDA leaders, cutting across party lines, are supporting him, sources said. ENS

Farmers' champion Manpade passes away

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kalaburagi

VETERAN Communist Party of India (Marxist) leader Maruti Manpade (65), died at a private hospital in Solapur, Maharashtra, on Tuesday, due to Covid-19 and pneumonia.

He was admitted to ESIC hospital here a fortnight back due to Covid-19, and later shifted to Solapur. He is survived by his wife and two sons. According to his son Sunil, the last rites will be held at their native village Ambalaga at 11am on Wednesday.

Manpade was known for his fight for the cause of farmers and agricultural labourers in the state, especially in the Kalyana Karnataka region. He staged demonstrations in Bengaluru many times for the cause of the farmers. Even during the pandemic lockdown, he worked towards highlighting the sufferings of the poor and needy.

Manpade was the state unit vice-president of Karnataka Prantya Sangha at the time of his death. Based in Kalaburagi for a long time, Manpade was more concerned about the growers of red gram, black gram and green gram – the crops that were extensively grown in the district. He often criticised the Union government's import policies which, he had felt, were the direct and major reason for the sufferings of the growers.

Manpade had tried his luck in electoral politics by contesting once for Bidar Lok Sabha constituency as a candidate of JD(S) and CPI(M) coalition and thrice for Kamalapur and Gulbarga Rural constituencies.

The Congress which held a meeting remembered Manpade's contribution for the welfare of farmers and labourers. Party working president Eshwar Khandre, MLAs Dr Ajay Singh, M Y Patil and former minister Sharan Prakash Patil spoke about how Manpade was in the forefront of the struggle for justice for the poor.

DKS hits the road, seeks votes for Jayachandra

ENS @Tumakuru

KPCC president D K Shivakumar on Tuesday hit the campaign trail in the Sira Assembly constituency canvassing for party candidate T B Jayachandra in 13 villages of Kallambella hobli, which is considered the party's stronghold.

Jayachandra was a two-time MLA from the earlier Kallambella Assembly constituency before it got merged with Sira after a delimitation exercise in 2008. "You should bring pro-people Congress back to power in the state. You should set an example by electing Jayachandra," he urged voters.

Referring to BJP leader Basangouda Patil Yatnal's outburst against Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, Shivakumar said that leaders from his own party are targeting the CM for poor performance. Former DyCM Dr G Parameshwara and former MLA K N Rajanna too accompanied Shivakumar.

Ammajamma's debut public rally today

Days after other party candidates started campaigning in the Sira Assembly constituency, JDS candidate and wife of former MLA late B Sathyanarayana, Ammajamma will take part in her maiden public rally at Changavara village in Gowdagere hobli, which is a stronghold of the party, on Wednesday and will share the dais with JDS national president H D Deve Gowda .

RUNS IN THE BLOOD

Sons carry election burden of their parents in Sira

ASHWINI M SRIPAD & DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru/Tumakuru

AS campaigning is heating up in RR Nagar and Sira Assembly constituencies, it is the sons of leaders from all political parties who are doing the heavy-lifting to pull votes.

It is not just B Y Vijayendra, son of CM B S Yediyurappa who is camping at Sira constituency in Tumakuru. Sons of senior leaders from other parties too are campaigning day in and out to win this prestige seat.

Keen to repeat BJP's stupendous victory in the KR Pete bypolls last year, Vijayendra, who is also BJP state vice-president, arrived at Sira a week ago, and has been micro-managing the campaigning-related activities.

Similarly, Sira Congress candidate TB Jayachandra's sons — TJ Sandeep and TJ Santosh — have taken charge of their father's campaigning. Santosh is no political greenhorn as he had contested the 2018 Assembly election from Chikkanayakanahalli in Tumakuru, but lost to J C Madhuswamy of the BJP.

Former Congress MLA KN Rajanna's son R Rajendra too is working for Jayachandra, who is a six-time MLA. He has been meeting leaders from different sections, trying to influence voters of large blocks.

Recently, Dr Yathindra, son of CLP leader Siddaramiah, too has jumped into the poll melee. But he has a reasonably tougher job as he has to campaign against his one-time friend and business partner Dr Rajesh Gowda, who is contesting from the BJP. Dr Yathindra has been given some panchayats to campaign.

Though Ammajamma, wife of former MLA late B Sathyanarayana, is the official candidate of the JDS from Sira, it is her son B Sathyaprakash who is handling the entire load of campaigning. That was also because she was down with Covid and recovered only recently.

In a bid to retain the seat, JDS patriarch H D Deve Gowda has assigned the responsibility of this constituency to his son H D Revanna, who has, in turn, tagged along his MP-son Prajwal Revanna to campaign in Sira.

A senior Congress leader, requesting anonymity, told TNIE that senior leaders are involving their children in such outings only to make them gain crucial experience in hard-fought electoral battlefields. "If the candidate wins, children will get a great political mileage," he said.

The state government transferred three IPS officers on Monday. DIG Labhu Ram, who was awaiting posting, has been posted as DIGP & Commissioner of Police of Hubballi-Dharwad. DIG R Dileep, who was Police Commissioner of Hubballi-Dharwad, has been transferred to the CID. Meanwhile, DCP (Law & Order) of Hubballi-Dharwad, P Krishnakant, has been posted as Superintendent of Police of Dharwad district.

Adam Pasha of Bigg Boss Kannada fame now in NCB net

Her name was revealed by another arrested accused to be part of drug customer network

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB), Bengaluru zone, on Tuesday arrested 'Bigg Boss Kannada' Season 6 contestant Adam Pasha under the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985 from the City.

Confirming the arrest, Amit Ghawate, NCB, Bengaluru Zonal Director, told The New Indian Express that when questioned, "Pasha confirmed to the investigating officer that she has been taking MDMA for more than two years," said Ghawate. Pasha was produced before the special NDPS court in Bengaluru and has been remanded in NCB custody till November 3. MDMA is a banned drug under the NDPS Act.

He added that Pasha's name had cropped up during the questioning of Anikha D, who was arrested by the NCB in Bengaluru along with two other accused — M Anoop and R Ravindran — in August this year. The three are presently lodged in judicial custody at the Bengaluru Central Prison.

"During her interrogation Anikha had told NCB that Pasha was her customer and that she used to supply MDMA in crystal form to the former. A detailed investigation including Pasha's call data records and financial transactions among other crucial evidence confirmed that Pasha was using drugs and was also Anikha's customer. The two were in touch with each other for the last two and a half years," said the NCB officer.

Ghawate added that the arrest of Anikha, Anoop and Ravindran had revealed their customer network, which included people from the entertainment industry and others.

In September, the NCB had busted a drug syndicate involving four college students from Udupi and had seized over 750 tablets of MDMA worth around Rs 10 lakh in the grey market.

On July 31, the NCB had seized 750 MDMA pills from a consignment from Germany at the Foreign Post Office in Bengaluru. On August 19, the Central anti-drug agency had apprehended a commerce student Rahman K who had allegedly been selling MDMA and other party drugs to students of his and other colleges. Rahman had placed the order of the MDMA pills online in exchange for Bitcoins, the NCB had stated.

CCB TO SUBJECT VIRENDER KHANNA TO NARCO TEST

The Central Crime Branch police, probing the Sandalwood drug case, are set to take accused Virender Khanna to the Forensic Science Laboratory in Ahmedabad for a narco-analysis test. The court had recently granted permission to the police to subject Khanna to the test. "We have sought an appointment from the FSL and once they provide us with the date, we will take him to Gujarat," an official said. However, Khanna has reportedly approached the Karnataka High Court seeking stay on the matter.

Staff dirty up Soudhas, dept issues warning

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

DON'T throw used paper cups, plastic covers, water bottles from the upper floors. Keep the premises clean. This is the diktat of the Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR) to the staff working at the Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and MS Building. It warned them against unhygienic practices.

In two circulars issued by the Under Secretary (DPAR), the department said it is necessary to keep the surroundings clean, especially when the entire state is in the grip of the pandemic. It has said it has been noticed that the staff were throwing bouquets, e-waste items, food packets and garlands among other things from the upper floors. Some of the staff were also seen keeping the leftover food at the windows for the birds. This is causing stink in and around this area, leading to an increase in rodents and cockroaches, the circular said.

According to the second circular, "This month on the account of Ayudha Pooja, staff at Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and MS Building draw rangoli inside the office and in the corridors. This apart, they use pumpkins with kumkum. Rangoli colours and the powder have harmful chemicals. They stain the walls, floor and other places. This is damaging the aesthetic beauty of the buildings."

The department said that a similar circular was issued previously too, but in vain. In the present circular, it has been mentioned that the staff must switch off the lights before leaving office. The Under Secretary warned that if these instructions are not followed, action will be taken against the officials in charge of the departments.

Allow us to hold BBMP poll in 198 wards: Poll panel to HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Election Commission (SEC) has moved the Karnataka High Court seeking directions to hold elections to 198 wards of Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and not wait till the delimitation process is over.

The SEC has sought the direction in its application before the court, pleading to add additional facts and prayer to the public interest litigation which was filed in January 2020 seeking directions to the state government to hold elections before the BBMP Council term expired. With this, the SEC has questioned the state's decision to postpone the elections.

The SEC said that the final delimitation notification was issued on June 23 and draft reservation notification on September 14 to hold elections to 198 Wards. The same arrangement should continue and the state government should be directed to issue the final reservation notification, irrespective of the Karnataka Municipal Corporation (Third Amendment) Act, 2020 -- amending Sections 7 and 21 of the Act to increase the number of Wards from 198 to 243, the SEC prayed before the court.

The SEC pleaded that the state government requires at least 12 months to issue delimitation and reservation notification for 243 Wards if it starts the process after receiving recommendations from the Delimitation Commission constituted recently. After that, 4-5 months will be needed to prepare and finalise fresh electoral rolls for new wards. The election process that has already started cannot be postponed as it would amount to flouting the mandate of the Constitution, the SEC argued.

Similar arguments were placed by the other petitioners also. After hearing them, the bench comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S Kinagi directed the state government to file its response by November 7 explaining why it was delaying the election process. The hearing was adjourned till November 10, 2020.

MAJORITY OF MSMEs MAY SHUT IF SITUATION DOES NOT IMPROVE

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

COVID-19 has rubbed salt over the wounds of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), which were already reeling under the impact of economic slowdown. Though some of them have just started to breathe, it may take a long time before they are back on track.

Karnataka, considered one of the most-industrialised states in the country, is home to over 7.6 lakh MSMEs of which 2.6 lakh are in Bengaluru alone and the sector employs nearly 2.6 crore people. The lockdown hit 20 per cent of industries, and only less than 10 per cent of these have reopened.

"The business turnover for MSMEs is back to where it was 10 years ago," said Srinivas Asranna, president, Peenya Industrial Association.

The Peenya Industrial Area, on the outskirts of Bengaluru, has 8,500 MSMEs. Around 80 per cent of them, except those supplying essential goods, had shut during the lockdown, and nearly 10 per cent of them are unlikely to open again, he said. After the lockdown was lifted, many industries could not operate because of unavailability of labourers, who had returned to their hometowns.

COVIDONOMICS PART-17

The government announced many sops and schemes targeting the MSME sector to tide over the crisis triggered by the pandemic, but they are only on paper and never put into action, said K B Arasappa, president, Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association (KASSIA).

For example, he said, single-window agencies in districts often don't meet for months, depriving entrepreneurs of avenues for effective redressal of their problems. "These agencies are ineffective. Once you apply for a new project, you still have to get multiple clearances. There is no meaningful coordination or follow-up among agencies. The promised online systems or deemed clearances are only talked about, but never implemented," he said.

"Among many problems that have pushed MSMEs to the brink is non-availability of bank loans. Though the Central government has asked banks to extend Covid emergency loans, many MSMEs have not been able to get them," he alleged.

When the lockdown was announced on March 23 and all industries were shut, it became difficult for MSMEs to get their pending dues, affecting their cash flows. "Many large industries delayed payments, citing lack of business and also, more ludicrously, shortage of workers at the accounts departments," he said.

Now, the sector is dogged by low production, absence of labour, lack of orders, difficulties in making payments, insufficient supply of raw materials and low business turnover, he added.

Arasappa feared that a large number of SMEs in the state may completely shut if the situation does not improve. "Under the Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme (ECLGS) for stressed MSMEs, SME-1 category got good support from the government, but SME-2 and 3 are struggling to get Covid emergency loans from banks. The Central government should support such industries," he said.

Also, the loan moratorium should be extended till the financial year-end. Any relief given should be comprehensive and consolidated and not piecemeal in the interest of the industry and country's economy at a time when the decline seems precipitous, he said.

"The government, instead of giving cash benefits to MSMEs, is again asking them to borrow when they are already reeling under a debt-trap. We are struggling to clear our existing dues, and how can we repay if we take fresh loans," asked Ramesh Patil, national executive committee member, Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI).

"If at all the government wants to rescue ailing MSMEs, which contribute significantly to the GDP of the country, the government could have announced direct cash benefits instead of collateral-free automatic loans," he said.

"Never have we asked the government for any rebate due to natural calamities. But this time, we do need help because of Covid. We are disappointed as an effective rescue plan is missing," he said.

Sector being ignored by govt: KASSIA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE state government has been ignoring Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSME) sector for a long time, alleged K B Arasappa, president, Karnataka Small-Scale Industries Association (KASSIA), here on Tuesday.

"The lockdown benefited 5 per cent of the sector as the demand for medical equipment rose. The Unlock period also saw a rise in export orders, but it is difficult to meet the demand because of poor infrastructure," he added.

"Around 40 per cent of all exports are from MSMEs and the demand for aeronautical and defence equipment is rising. But there is no proper port in Mangaluru and roads in Karnataka are in a bad condition. This is helping Tamil Nadu gain economically as a large number goods is being exported from there. The demand for machine tools and agricultural products too is rising from Australia, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh and European countries," he said.

The sector is also facing difficulties in paying electricity and other bills. "District administrations have started demanding occupancy certificates from MSMEs, while it is usually sought from big industries and commercial units. A government order makes it mandatory for public sector units to purchase 20 per cent of their requirements from MSMEs, but it is not being done. The GST relief offered by the government is also not helping in reviving the sector as only 45 per cent of the manufacturing burden is cleared with this," he said.

KASSIA members said they have been making representations to the government, but with changing ministerial portfolios, nothing has been done.

Rain will continue to pour misery

IMD extends orange alert in TS; thundershowers likely in Hyd till Oct 24

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

THE Indian Metrological Department (IMD) has extended its 'orange alert' (stay alert) till Wednesday even as a fresh bout of rain on Tuesday sent the people scurrying home, fearing yet another deluge.

The rain that made many streets inundated did not last more than half an hour, letting the citizens heave a sigh of relief. Though streets began collecting water but as rain stopped, the little water flowed away without causing any traffic snarls or dislocating the distribution of Rs. 10,000 rain balm or restoration of works.

But the IMD forecast for Wednesday is again making the people uneasy, wondering if the worst is yet to come. The IMD in a forecast on Tuesday IMD said, apart of Hyderabad most parts of the state are likely to experience heavy to very-heavy rainfall till Wednesday. It also indicated that one or two spells of rain or thundershowers are likely in the state capital till October 24.

According to the Met officials, the rain is because of a cyclonic circulation that has led to the formation of a low-pressure area 7.6 km above the mean sea level in the Bay of Bengal that is likely to get well marked in the next 24-hours.

'Declare K'taka floods a calamity'

YEDIYURAPPA had earlier said the government was doing everything possible to help flood-affected people and relief and rescue efforts were being taken up on a war-footing.

Heavy rain and release of water from dams in Maharashtra have resulted in flooding and Army and NDRF personnel are assisting the local administration in rescue and relief activities.

Meanwhile, Indi MLA Y Patil and the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha have urged the State Government to recommend to the Central Government that the floods be declared as a national calamity and take up relief works.

Get Claims Commissioner functional: HC to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Stressing the need for the immediate functioning of the Claims Commissioner to investigate liability, assess damage and recommend compensation to victims of Bengaluru riots, the Karnataka HC on Tuesday directed the state government to ensure it at the earliest.

A division bench comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S Kinagi said that the state government must ensure all requisite infrastructure is made available at the earliest so that the Claims Commissioner can start functioning immediately.

The bench said any delay will set at naught the very objective of appointing the Claims Commissioner, Justice H S Kempanna, former judge of the high court.

Threat to judge: Man held within 24 hours

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Halasur Gate police have arrested a man in connection with the threat letter that was sent to the NDPS Court Judge demanding the release of actresses arrested in the Sandalwood drug case. Investigations revealed that the accused had sent the letter to falsely implicate his brother-in-law in the case. Rajashekhar (50) from Lingadahalli in Tumakuru, was arrested on Tuesday.

On Monday, Judge GM Sheenappa of the Special Court for NDPS cases had received a threat letter along with a detonator-like object through a post. The miscreant had demanded that actresses arrested in the Sandalwood drugs case and those arrested in murder and extortion cases should be granted bail. "You can ask if you want money but if the demand is not met, I will blast (kill) you by keeping explosives in the car engine. A similar letter has been sent to Police Commissioner Kamal Pant and CCB Joint Commissioner Sandeep Patil," the miscreant had written in the letter, claiming he belonged to a terrorist outfit named Mohammed Jai Shri of Pakistan. A case was registered in Halasur Gate police station.

"The accused had sent the photocopy of the ID card of one Ramesh. Based on the address in the ID card, Ramesh was traced in Tumakuru. He pleaded his innocence and said that he suspected that his brother-in-law Rajashekhar could be behind the incident. Another team picked up Rajashekhar and he confessed. It was found that Rajashekhar and Ramesh were fighting for a property belonging to their father-in-law," police said. "Rajashekhar wanted to falsely implicate Ramesh in the drugs case. He went to a nearby quarry and collected a detonator used for blasting stones. He wrote the threat letter and posted it along with the detonator," police added.

Rajashekhar was allegedly involved in a case in which a church was set on fire in 2013. He is also an accused in a POCSO case, assault and copper wire theft case, the police added.

DISMAL ECONOMIC SHOW WILL HIT INDIA'S STANDING

The latest IMF economic growth/contraction projections come as a shocker for India. Not only is our nation below the average global contraction, it is substantially poorer than her regional peers. That the opposition is rubbing salt on open wounds has made the government's discomfiture worse. The IMF has predicted a global contraction of 4.4% for 2020. In comparison, India's economy will shrink by 10.3%. China, with which we aspire to compete, has bounced back and is expected to grow 1.9%. The only consolation is India's rebound next year, according to the IMF, will be 8.8%—higher than China's 8.2%.

The regional comparison shows Bangladesh, a nation we liberated, pulling ahead of India. While Bangladesh's per capita GDP in dollar terms is expected to grow 4% in 2020 to $1,888, India's 10.3% decline will take it down to $1,877, the lowest in four years. Bangladesh's per capita GDP was nearly 40% lower than ours just five years ago. The secret of the turnaround has been its aggressive export policy in low-skill sectors that other nations shunned. Shoes and apparel factories don't add huge value, but they create millions of jobs. Bangladesh's per capita GDP has been growing at 9.1% annually, while India's exports have been stagnating.

The main reason for India falling back is undoubtedly the economic freeze due to the Covid lockdowns. India has logged over 1 lakh deaths to the pandemic while Bangladesh, albeit one-eighth of our population, has recorded fewer than 6,000 deaths. It is no secret that Bangladesh has an efficient and far-reaching public health system. In tackling Covid, ours is a failure. One doesn't need an oracle to tell us that poor economic performance has a telling impact on how the world sees India. Global leadership is still far off; now, it may be difficult to assert our own in regional leadership. It is time the Centre steps in and reverses this trend. Rapid, export-led growth that will expand labour participation and employment is the need of the hour.

800 & FALLING PREY TO CROWD CENSORSHIP

Tamil actor Vijay Sethupathi's decision to opt out of 800, a biopic on Sri Lankan cricket player Muthiah Muralitharan, was not surprising, coming as it did in the aftermath of a week-long social media storm kicked up by the film and political fraternity. The actor put out a cryptic tweet on Monday, indicating that he is drawing stumps just when he was getting ready to spin a dream role. It came in response to a request from Muralitharan to step down and end the controversy.

The initial bouncer came from Tamil filmmaker Bharathiraja last week, when he asked the actor to junk the project, saying it was "based on the life of the cricketer who had glorified the Tamil genocide in Sri Lanka in 2009". Soon, more voices in the gallery lent support to this cry. Muralitharan, a Tamilian whose ancestors had gone to Sri Lanka as plantation workers during the 19th and early 20th centuries, is seen to be a supporter of Mahinda Rajapaksa, the prime minister of Sri Lanka, and his brother Gotabaya Rajapaksa, its current president. The plantation workers, referred to as "estate Tamils", live in central Sri Lanka while the Jaffna Tamils or Eelam Tamils consider themselves descendants of the old Jaffna kingdom and mostly live in north and east Sri Lanka. Though they are both Tamils, their caste dynamics and role in the political landscape are varied.

Films as a medium of creative expression have now become frequent targets of crowd censorship. Trolling and hounding in social media has been dictating the narrative of art and the artist's creative expression, and, unfortunately, been succeeding in its pursuit, the recent pulling down of a jewellery advertisement being a case in point. The latest pressure on Sethupathi is no different, as it comes from chauvinists who claim to preserve native pride. The point being missed is that the biopic is on the sportsman, tracking his rise in becoming a world-class spinner who bagged a record 800 wickets in Test cricket, a feat that is yet to be matched. His journey involving hard work and determination would have been inspirational to the enthusiastic, cricket-crazy subcontinent. A final word to be noted is that Muralitharan is the mentor of IPL's Sunrisers Hyderabad team owned by the Sun Network, whose Kalanithi Maran is the grand-nephew of former CM M Karunanidhi.

The resolve of Subhas Chandra Bose and the popular support for his Indian National Army led to the quick exit of the British colonisers from India

REMEMBERING NETAJI ON HUKUMAT DAY

A SURYA PRAKASH

Vice-Chairman, Executive Council, Nehru Memorial Museum & Library

TAPAS RANJAN

October 21 is an important day in India's calendar, because it was on this day in 1943 that Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose and his courageous band of soldiers and followers established the Arzi Hukumat-e-Azad Hind (the provincial government of free India) in Singapore and declared war on the British Empire. Thousands of soldiers joined Netaji's Indian National Army (INA) and as its popularity and resolve grew, the British began winding up their operations.

What hastened their exit from India? A fresh perspective on the events leading up to the British government's decision to quit India in August 1947 is now available in a book recently published by the Netaji Subhas Bose INA Trust.

The book—Netaji: India's Independence and British Archives, authored by Kalyan Kumar De—has put together several key reports and documents that throw light on the sudden change of mood in the British camp. These reports, primarily from the governors of the various provinces and from the Intelligence Bureau, indicate that by the mid-1940s, the British went into panic mode because of the tremendous popularity of Subhas Chandra Bose and the nationwide appreciation and sympathy for the INA that he had established to militarily oust the colonial power. This in turn triggered a naval mutiny in Bombay and several other stations, along with rebellions in some army camps, including Madras and Poona.

The trigger in 1946 was the British decision to court martial officers and men of the INA and the nationwide anger over these trials. Subhas Chandra Bose's determination, stamina and vision can be gauged from the fact that thousands of men and women responded to his call, joined the INA in India and in Southeast Asian countries, and sacrificed their lives in order to liberate the nation.

Mr De reproduces an IB report of November 1945 that warns the British government that there was enormous sympathy for the soldiers of the INA. It said that if the government did not take cognisance of this sentiment, the consequence would be a mass agitation and bloodshed.

Going by the fear and anxiety displayed by several governors in their reports to the Viceroy Lord Wavell, in late 1945 and early 1946, the latter had very few options. The governors—one more worried than the other—expressed their trepidation at the ongoing INA trials and their repercussions. Almost every governor warned the viceroy that the government would be playing with fire if it targeted the INA because they were seen as brave freedom fighters. They warned that this could result in a mutiny in the Indian Army and they were not very much off the mark. The viceroy, in turn, kept King George VI and Prime Minister Clement Atlee informed.

These fears forced the British to commute the sentences of deportation for life given in the court martial to the three most prominent INA soldiers on trial—Prem Kumar Sehgal, Gurbaksh Singh Dhillon and Shah Nawaz Khan.

This is corroborated by General C J Auchinleck's "strictly personal and secret" letter to Army Commanders on 12 February 1946, in which he said that confirmation of the sentences would have led to violent internal conflict. There was a "genuine feeling that they were patriots and nationalists" and that therefore, even if they were "misled", "they should be treated with clemency as true sons of India". Indian officers in the Indian Army, he said, were glad and relieved at the final outcome, because if the sentence had been enforced, "it would have led to chaos in the country and probably to mutiny and dissension in the army...". Along with this, the naval mutiny and the ones in the army camps in Jabalpur, Madras and Poona convinced the British that they could no longer rely on the Indian armed forces to keep the British flag flying on the subcontinent. Once this realisation dawned on them, action was swift. The British government took a formal decision to end the colonisation of India in March 1946.

> Along with the growing relevance of the INA, the naval mutiny and the ones in the army camps in Jabalpur, Madras and Poona convinced the British that they could no longer rely on the Indian armed forces to keep the British flag flying on the subcontinent

Sir Twynam, Governor, Central Provinces and Berar, wrote a secret letter to Lord Wavell on 26 November 1945 in which he confessed that he had just 17 European officers, including three judicial officers, and 19 European members of the Indian Police (36 in total)—to manage a population of 18 million over an area of one lakh square miles!

The figures given by Sir Twynam indeed sum up the tragedy of India's colonisation by the British. At the best of times, it is said that there were just a few thousand Europeans in the bureaucracy, police and army, and they had colonised a nation of India's size with a population of about 400 million people.

Every Indian today will be stunned by these figures. How did millions of Indians allow themselves to be subjugated by a handful of Europeans? A lack of unity and self-confidence were certainly two factors that led to this dreadful tale of colonisation.

De's book should also make us reflect over the work of some historians who diligently practiced suppressio veri and kept so many truths away from the people. Many individuals have worked for several years to dredge up hidden facts, including Kalyan Kumar De, and all of them deserve our gratitude for enabling us to get closer to the truth.

E-COMMERCE AND THE NEW-AGE MIDDLEMEN

ANURADHA GOYAL

Author and founder of IndiTales

One of the key things that the internet promised in its early days was getting rid of middlemen. E-commerce and social media enabled direct interactions between businesses and their consumers—easily and transparently. Marketplaces allowed any of us to become an entrepreneur by equipping us to sell our products or services.

When they promised the end of evil middlemen, telling us let no one come in between the supplier and customer, little did we realise that large e-commerce platforms or marketplaces are nothing but new-age middlemen. Their revenue comes from a share of transaction value that you conduct through their system. Sure, they invest in creating this large digital real estate and in algorithms that promote your products to relevant customers and logistics. They are the digital version of a supermarket, who charge you for shelf space plus a margin on the product sold.

Soon the affiliate programs followed. With simple widgets and plugins, anyone with influence in the digital space can become a part of the sales force on a revenue-sharing basis. Many thought of it as a source of easy passive income only to realise that affiliate marketing demands efforts proportionate to the returns expected.

Once social media became mainstream, it multiplied our everyday network. Anyone we have known at any point in life is now connected no matter where they are. Their network in turn is separated by just one degree, multiplying our network further. Many enterprising individuals spotted the early opportunity and started selling on social networks. This included a lot of talented women who ran home-based businesses through their FB pages and groups. Social media platforms observed that commerce happens better between people who know each other and started integrating it into their platforms. Parallelly, e-commerce moved to mobile apps, reaching out to a large population that joined the digital bandwagon directly on phone.

E-commerce platforms brought largely the organised sector online, both in terms of the brands they sold as well as the prime customers they served. Their model was primarily pull mode and hence all efforts were spent on getting the potential customers on to the website or mobile app. Once the customer is there, the sheer variety of products, sales and offers were there to make them spend.

E-commerce missed out on the reluctant customer who is not very confident of buying without seeing and without knowing who they are buying from. These are not the people who would engage in digital window shopping and must be approached with a push approach through people they trust. Most importantly, they prefer to deal in their own language rather than English, the preferred language of digital platforms.

> Things have come a full circle where everyone is a potential middleman. Practices that have stood the test of time must have had some merit in them. It took us less than a decade to revert to them with a vengeance. It is time to ponder over it when we plan our next innovation cycle

The answer came in the form of social commerce that marries e-commerce and social media networks. It allows anyone to sell, anyone to resell and of course anyone can buy. B2B and B2C models seamlessly combined to become a B2B2C model, with the middle B being the platform. The latest in this series is O2O or Offline to Offline commerce, meaning both the seller and the buyer are offline, though the transaction is still enabled by online portals or apps.

Interestingly, women are at the forefront of the social commerce revolution; over 80% of registered resellers are women. As resellers, they become the virtual window shoppers for their friends and family. They share product details on social media and order on their behalf, after answering all the queries in their own language. Not to forget that with personalised sales comes the joy of haggling that is so much a part of shopping in India.

In terms of platforms, the Facebook ecosystem clearly dominates with WhatsApp in the lead with a huge margin, followed by Instagram and Facebook. In-app videos and chats are making inroads but they still leverage the same platforms for reselling.

The largest categories of products sold are low-value vanity ones like fashion and mobile accessories, unbranded clothes, etc.—basically, small-ticket products that people buy on impulse and not really planned expenses. These are mostly supplied by local vendors who produce in small quantities, including a lot of artists in their initial years. Some portals even include used products in their portfolio. Think of Janpath in Delhi or Fashion Street in Mumbai or Bangkok's night market going online. It has some elements of multi-level marketing—remember Amway or Tupperware that was sold by a neighbour always on the lookout for the next customer.

So one may go to established e-commerce to buy the new mobile phone, but to buy accessories for the phone, there is social commerce. This also shows that there is complementary peaceful co-existence of both the e-commerce portals and social commerce economy.

Thus, from what started as a promise of not having any middleman, things have come a full circle where everyone is a potential middleman. Practices that have stood the test of time must have had some merit in them. It took us less than a decade to revert to them with a vengeance. It is time to ponder over it when we plan our next innovation cycle.

A great leader

The passing of Joseph Mar Thoma has left the faithful in shock and grief. The head of the Malankara Mar Thoma Church was known for his revolutionary ideas and problem-solving abilities. When women were stopped from attending the evening session of the Maramon Convention due to security reasons, he advanced the timings and ensured gender equality. He also strived to bring transgender people into the mainstream.

The report that Bimla Munda, an outstanding Jharkhand sportswoman, was forced into selling rice beer for subsistence is distressing. That the state could provide her a job only after all these years is disheartening.

Judiciary should introspect

This is with reference to No democracy without a clean judiciary (Oct 20). In democracy, there is no independence without accountability. The other two pillars of democracy are accountable to citizens, while the third one is not. These days, people are more aware about their role in a democracy. Hence, the judiciary should introspect in this regard.

Lack of transparency

There is lack of transparency in the selection of judges to High Courts and the Supreme Court. The author has hit the nail on the head by posing the question whether those in power really want a clean judiciary. Apart from the proposed vigilance mechanism, he could have given more concrete suggestions.

Become accountable

The judiciary is the last source of hope for the common man to get his problems resolved when he faces injustice from the rulers. Our top courts should live up to our expectations and become accountable.

Yet another low

The severe backlash from some politicians and Tamil film celebrities has forced actor Vijay Sethupathi to walk out of cricketing icon Muthiah Muralitharan's biopic, 800. In yet another low, some have issued rape threats to the actor's daughter. The biopic has run into rough weather as the cricketer's past comments were perceived as supporting the Lankan forces against the LTTE. Should we not make sure that arts and sports do not fall prey to a few rabble-rousers?

Hounding actors

Tamil actor Vijay Sethupathi has withdrawn from the movie 800 following fierce and widespread criticism. This is not fair. It was supposed to be purely a sports biography. An actor has the right to choose their film.

Drama in Kerala

What is unfolding in the Kerala gold smuggling case is a well-orchestrated drama. The state government appears to have devised a strategy wherein the former principal secretary to the CM is feigning ill health to avoid arrest while at the same time, he is making statements claiming he is only a pawn in this whole issue. It looks like the ruling dispensation is desperate as the noose is tightening around its neck.

Campaigning amid calamity

When Hyderabad is drowning, a few top leaders of both the ruling and opposition parties are busy campaigning for the Dubbaka Assembly bypolls rather than helping people in need and monitoring relief measures in the capital. Flouting Covid norms

This is with reference to Hotelier booked as ₹10-a-plate biryani offer goes awry (Oct 20). When the government is doing everything possible to avoid crowding to prevent the spread of Covid, it was naive on the part of the hotelier to organise a biryani mela. Those flouting Covid norms should be severely dealt with.

In-house probe into Jagan's charges needed, says Shah

Former Delhi HC chief justice says if Andhra CM's allegations remain unproven, they will weaken the courts; judiciary should be vigilant and protect its image

ANDHRA Pradesh chief minister Jagan Mohan Reddy's allegations against Supreme Court judge Justice N V Ramana has shaken the people's faith in the judiciary and an in-house inquiry must be ordered, retired Delhi high court chief justice A P Shah told Kanu Sarda in an interview.

Jagan Mohan Reddy has alleged that Justice N V Ramana's daughters are involved in questionable land deals because of which Justice Ramana is interfering in the working of the Andhra Pradesh high court. Jagan took the extreme step of going public with the letter containing the allegations. Are the allegations justified and the manner of making them justified?

I think it is important to differentiate between the two sets of allegations made, firstly, against Justice Ramana's daughters etc. and secondly, regarding Justice Ramana's alleged interference in the high court at the behest of Jagan's political opponent. These two matters must be treated differently.

On the first matter, an FIR has been filed in which Justice Ramana has not been named. On the second matter, even though no formal request has been made by Jagan to inquire into the allegations, he has named some high court judges and supposedly provided material in support. It matters little now as to whether it was appropriate for one constitutional authority to make public remarks about another constitutional authority in this manner. The allegations are now public and must be dealt with publicly. This is absolutely essential for the judiciary.

The judiciary must recognise that a considerable degree of faith is reposed in the institution and allegations such as these dent public perceptions of judges and the court system. If an in-house committee must be set up to examine the matter, or the Chief Justice of India must himself inquire into certain aspects, so be it.

There is a view that Jagan wrote the letter because an SC bench headed by Justice Ramana is hearing a case relating to MPs and MLAs accused in criminal cases in which Jagan is also an accused. Bar associations have termed this as an attack on the independence of the judiciary and there is also a call from certain sections to take action against Jagan. What is your view?

This is probably the first time that allegations of this nature have been made against someone who is about to take up the highest judicial office in the land. In that sense, it is unprecedented. And it is doubly unprecedented that a sitting chief minister has dared to do this and chosen to make the allegations public.

So long as the allegations are not inquired into, the allegations will continue to remain alive in the minds of the people. With this letter alone, the faith of the people in the judiciary is shaken. The judiciary cannot afford to remain silent and must follow due process and equally importantly, due process must be seen to have been followed.

If the outcome of the judiciary's inquiries is that Jagan's allegations are unsubstantiated or are motivated, surely the court could take action against him.

What should be the CJI's next step?

The Supreme Court should respond in a measured way. Mere condemnation will not solve the problem. The judiciary should be vigilant and protect its image.

In my view, there should be an inquiry through the in-house procedure, especially regarding the land acquisition allegations. An in-house inquiry might reveal that the allegations are in fact completely motivated and false. But so long as the allegations remain unproven, they will weaken the judiciary. Allegations like this linger, which is why definitive and certain closure in these matters is essential. The decision to hold an in-house inquiry rests with the CJI. But the fact is that the judiciary's position will be strengthened if an in-house procedure is followed.

What role has the collegium system of appointment of judges played in creating this situation? Does the appointment system need transparency or should we have a system like the NJAC?

Whether this is the fallout of the collegium is a trite question. Under the constitution, the Supreme Court has no administrative control over the hIgh courts. But the collegium changed the power dynamics considerably.

Now, a Supreme Court judge, even if not in the collegium, is always consulted in matters relating to their parent high court in matters of appointment, promotion or transfer. As a result, the future prospects of a high court judge also depend on the whims and fancies of senior judges in the Supreme Court. Every judge in the Supreme Court, therefore, carries a lot of clout. Because appointments, promotions and transfers are all affected, a culture of sycophancy has been cultivated.

I have long held the view that the so-called collegium system of judicial appointments is a fraud on our constitution. The collegium operates like a club or a cabal and it is essentially undemocratic.

Does the Indian judiciary need a proper accountability system for judges to address situations like these?

As accountability measures, we have, on the one hand, a complex and difficult-to-execute impeachment procedure and the relatively weak and informal in-house committee method. There is nothing in between and there is no clarity on penalties for aberrant action on the part of judges.

As allegations increase in number and as institutional reputation deteriorates, a robust, clearly delineated accountability system for judges is the least we deserve. There is unfortunately no statutory or constitutional basis for such a mechanism. We urgently need an accountability mechanism that is hard coded in statute or regulation, like in the UK and the US. Penalties are an essential component, especially less severe versions of impeachment.

'Rahul is in a bubble, should stop appeasement politics'

WITHIN a week of her joining the BJP, actor-turned-politician Kushboo Sundar said the appeasement politics prevailing in the Congress and the "bubble around Rahul Gandhi" was what led to her resignation. Echoing the saying that 'there are no permanent friends or foes' in politics to justify her move from the Congress to the BJP, she spoke candidly during a conversation with TNIE's Editorial Director Prabhu Chawla*, and* senior journalist and author Kaveree Bamzai in e-expressions, a series of live webcasts with people who matter.

The politician reiterated that her resignation letter to Sonia Gandhi was ready way back in February but in because of the Covid-19 situation, she could not meet her to hand over the letter since she has great admiration for her. Sundar declined to name the persons who were

You blame one party (BJP) saying it is about Hindutva. But here, you (Congress) is not only trying to appease minorities but also trying to appease Hindus

Kushboo Sundar, BJP leader

"pushing and suppressing" her in the Congress, something that she had referred to in her resignation letter to the AICC chief.

"Unfortunately, in Delhi, they have built a bubble, especially Rahul Gandhi has built a bubble around himself, and people who are allowed to enter that bubble, they tell him that everything is fine. But the bubble is opaque and not transparent."

She explained what, according to her, is going wrong within the Congress: "When I wrote the letter, it was not only me. I know there are so many voices within the party who need to speak, but they do not have the courage or position to move up. From within the party itself, I have recieved so many calls congratulating me," she said.

She revealed though that she had said 'no' to the BJP when the party approached her earlier. She added that her joining the BJP was not even a political move and recounted her experiences in the Congress. "I have been tolerating the nonsense, all kinds of insults, and the way my dignity was questioned. I was losing my respectability. I was tolerating it for four years and I took this up to Rahul Gandhi. Only if you are cleaning the problem at the ground level the party will be strong."

On whether there was a fundamental contradiction between the ideologies of both parties, Sundar said the Congress has always blamed the BJP for having a Hindutva agenda. "If the Congress is about secularism, why should they declare the gotra of Rahul Gandhi? So you (Congress) are appeasing the Hindus by giving the details of Rahul Gandhi? You want Hindu votes. Why this hypocritical attitude? You blame one party saying it is about Hindutva. But here you (Congress) is not only trying to appease minorities but also trying to appease Hindus."

The ex-Congress leader dared parties which say that they are secular-minded to declare that they are not bothered about the Hindu votes. "You have to explain what (kind of) Hindu Rahul Gandhi is, which god he prays to, which temple he goes to... It's high time he stops the appeasement politics and hypocritical attitude," she said.

Sundar said former DMK president M Karunanidhi is her political mentor. "One thing I learned from him is there's nothing called an enemy party. There's always an opposition party. You are not permanently friends with any political party nor a permanent enemy."

CHINA WARNS INDIA OVER TIES WITH TAIWAN

New Delhi: China on Tuesday again warned India against developing trade ties with Taiwan, which it called an inalienable part of the country. "There is only one China in the world and Taiwan is an inalienable part of China. The 'One China' principle is the universal consensus of the international community. It is also the political basis for China to develop ties with other countries. So we oppose any official exchanges between countries having diplomatic ties with China," the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs said.

HOPE INDIA WILL HAND OVER SOLDIER: CHINA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

CHINA on Tuesday said it hoped that the Indian side will live up to its promise and return its soldier, who inadvertently crossed the Line of Actual Control (LAC), at the earliest.

In a statement issued by the Chinese Defence Ministry, Beijing said the soldier was helping herders round-up yaks when he lost his way and inadvertently crossed over the Line of Actual Control.

"We informed the Indian side of the missing trooper and were informed shortly afterwards that he had been found and would be returned after undergoing a medical checkup," spokesperson for the Western Theatre Command Zhang Shuili said.

"We hope that the Indian side will live up to its promise to hand over the soldier as soon as possible and implement the consensus reached by the two sides in the 7th round of Senior Commanders meeting, so as to maintain peace and tranquillity," Zhang said.

On Monday, India had said that Corporal Wang Ya Long was apprehended in Ladakh's Demchok after he strayed across the Line of Actual Control and would be released soon.

"As per established protocols, he will be returned back to China at the Chushul-Moldo meeting point after completion of formalities," it said.

India and China are engaged in a stand-off since June 15 after a violent face-off at the Galwan Valley lead to the death of 20 Indian soldiers.

'Violation of law not allowed in name of rights'

NEW DELHI: India on Tuesday reacted sharply to UN High Commissioner for Human Rights Michelle Bachelet's remarks over the restrictions imposed on NGOs and arrest of activists, saying violations of law cannot be condoned on the pretext of human rights.

"We have seen some comments by the UNHCR for Human Rights on an issue relating to the Foreign Contributions Regulation Act (FCRA). India is a democratic polity based on the rule of law and an independent judiciary. The framing of laws is obviously a sovereign prerogative. Violations of law, however, cannot be condoned under the pretext of human rights. A more informed view of the matter was expected of a UN body," MEA Spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said.

Bachelet earlier had urged the government to safeguard the rights of NGOs and their ability to carry out their work.

"India has long had a strong civil society, which has been at the forefront of groundbreaking human rights advocacy within the country and globally. But I am concerned that vaguely defined laws are increasingly being used to stifle these voices," the UNHCHR commissioner said.

Bachelet said the actions based on grounds of vaguely defined 'public interest' leave the FCRA open to abuse and it is being used to punish NGOs for advocacy of human rights. ENS

Plasma therapy may be removed from Covid-19 treatment protocol, says govt

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

PLASMA therapy for Covid-19 patients may soon be discontinued as a permitted investigational treatment from the national clinical management protocol for coronavirus, the government announced on Tuesday.

Hospitals across the country are using the therapy rampantly, even though the largest randomised clinical trial on this from India, led by the ICMR, has shown that it does not help Covid-19 patients either in terms of mortality or disease progression.

"We have had discussions in the task force, and we are discussing further with the joint monitoring group that this may be deleted from the national guidelines," ICMR director general Dr Balram Bhargava said at a press briefing.

The findings of the trial carried out in 39 hospitals across 14 states and Union Territories, made public last month, had shown that the therapy did not benefit moderately ill Covid-19 patients either in terms of reducing mortality or lowering progression of the disease.

The analysis, that had been released on a preprint server of the health sciences in September, is now set to appear in the British Medical Journal.

The reported rampant black marketing for plasma, which can legally only be donated, has continued despite the evidence to the contrary.

The ICMR study involved 464 patients with breathing difficulties and oxygen saturation level of less than 93%, of whom, 235 were given convalescent plasma with antibodies against SARS CoV2, received from donors who had recovered.

In the comparison group, 229 patients received only standard care. Those in the intervention group were transfused with two doses of 200 ml plasma 24 hours apart. Both the intervention and control groups were compared after 28 days. The results showed that 34 patients or 13.6%, who had received the therapy died, while 31 patients or 14.6%, who did not receive it, succumbed to the infection. Also, 17 patients in each group progressed to have severe disease.

FALL IN OXYGEN USE

The consumption of medical oxygen for Covid-19 patients in India has reduced by over 10% now, as compared to mid-September when the pandemic was at the peak, the data shared by the Union Health Ministry shows.

'Army's move to bury slain militants worked'

MAYANK SINGH @Srinagar

THE Army's new practice of not handing over the remains of killed Kashmiri militants to their family members during the Covid-19 pandemic and burying them away from home has worked in its favour.

A senior Army officer said the pratice has prevented local youths from picking guns at "janazas" (funerals) of militants. The locals have also supported the move, he said.

Seeing the positive results, the Army now wishes to continue the practice. "The conspirers were using such occasions to run not only their recruitment drives but also to mobilise anti-state sentiments," the Army officer said.

"We had found that a minimum of two to three youth used to join militancy from these janazas and under the influence of charged-up speeches by over ground workers (OGWs), they were being brainwashed and pushed towards picking up arms," the officer added.

In such cases, the security forces had to apply various means to control or disperse the crowd. A senior J&K Police official said the idea of burying the bodies were mooted in March after a halt in anti-terror operations.

"Considering the Covid-19 pandemic, the counter-terror operations were stopped for a brief period so that if a militant was killed, no congregation took place. But the immediate incidents forced us to make a proposal and forward it to the MHA." said the cop.

The plan was approved and implemented by April 15 and by that time, the burial sites were earmarked the police officer added.

Five militants gunned down in two encounters

SRINAGAR: Five militants were killed in two encounters in militancy-hit districts of Pulwama and Shopian in south Kashmir over 24 hours. Three of the slain militants, according to the police, were involved in Tuesday's attack on a CRPF party in which a jawan was injured.

An official said a joint party of the police, the CRPF and the Army launched a search operation in Hakripora area of Pulwama in the morning after receiving inputs about the presence of militants there.

"The militants were asked to surrender but instead, they fired indiscriminately on the troops. The fire was returned by the troops and in the ensuing gunfight, three Lashkar-e-Taiba militants were killed," he said.

In another gunfight that broke out on Tuesday evening and ended on Wednesday morning at Melhoora village of Shopian, two Hizbul Mujahideen militants were killed. ENS

CBI takes over TRP scam probe, registers FIR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN a twist to the alleged TRP scam, the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), based on the recommendation of the Uttar Pradesh government, on Tuesday took over the into alleged manipulation of TRP after registering an FIR.

The case was registered at the Hazratganj Police Station in Lucknow a few days ago on the basis of the complaint of a regional director of an advertisement company Kamal Sharma. The CBI FIR against unknown persons has charges of common intention, criminal conspiracy, criminal breach of trust, cheating, forgery with intent of cheating and forgery with documents or electronic record to harm someone's reputation.

The alleged scam was brought to light by the Mumbai Police earlier this month which registered a case against Republic TV, Box Cinema and Marathi channel Fakt Marathi.

Television Rating Points (TRP) are used to gauge the popularity of a channel or programme by advertising agencies. The points are calculated in India by Broadcast Audience Research Council (BARC).

"Since TRPs are so important it is the obligation of the organisation calculating TRPs to work in an impartial manner with total integrity. It is necessary for such an organization to be credible and transparent," the CBI FIR says.

Nitish mocks RJD's 10 lakh jobs sop

Bihar CM reminds voters that his government provided jobs to more than six lakh people in contrast to the complete 'jungle raj' during 15-year-rule of Lalu Prasad and his wife

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

COUNTERING the poll promise of RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav on giving 10 lakh jobs, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar questioned its viability while addressing election rallies at Gopalganj, a Yadav stronghold, and other places on Tuesday.

Nitish sought to know how many people were given jobs when Tejashwi's father Lalu Prasad ruled the state for 15 years. "Some leaders are used to misleading the people for the benefit of a family. They are now promising jobs without knowledge. From where will they arrange funds to fulfil the promise — from jail or counterfeit notes?" Nitish asked.

"We have given jobs to more than six lakh people and employment opportunities to a large number of people. The RJD had only plundered the state in its 15-year rule."

He targeted RJD chief Lalu Prasad for a series of tweets made against him, Nitish said: "What did you do for women in 15 years? When the husband went to jail, you made the wife the CM, but what did she do for women? Nothing but just own family growth".

He said the NDA government has given 50% reservation to women and recruited the highest number of women in the police, he said.

On the state's law and order during the previous government of RJD, he said kidnapping had become an industry, forcing many traders and doctors to leave Bihar.

"The state did not have roads or electricity. The law and order meant loot and shoot rule. There was a complete jungle raj. But today, there is electricity in every house, there is a road to every village and there is rule of law in Bihar," he said.

Talking about, his governments work in the health sector, he said earlier just 39 people used to visit primary health care centres per month but now these PHCs are witnessing 10,000 footfalls in a month. "I have no selfish agenda. I am dedicated to the people."

Adityanath covers three constituencies

Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Tuesday forayed into battleground Bihar where he asked people to vote the NDA back to power, drawing upon PM Narendra Modi's mass appeal and the BJPs ability to walk the talk on Ayodhya, Kashmir and Pakistan-sponsored terrorism. He blazed through three assembly segments with back-to-back rallies on the first day of his campaign commencing his speeches with roars of 'Vande Mataram' and signing off with chants of 'Jai Shri Ram'.

NDA should up the ante to counter Tejashwi: Experts

PATNA: RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav is said to be causing worries in the ruling NDA camp with his rallies drawing large crowds wherever he goes to canvass in favour of candidates of the Grand Alliance.

"As a result of this, for the first time on Tuesday, Nitish Kumar spoke aggressively against the RJD and its poll promise for 10 lakh jobs to the youths asking the RJD where from money would come for 10 lakhs of jobs-from the sky or jail or the counterfeit notes would be used for this," said a senior NDA leader, conceding that more aggressive and logical speeches are required to counter Tejashwi.

Videos of Tejashwi's rallies are going viral showing a sea of people flooding the venue. "The sea of people is standing for change, development, employment and jobs in Bihar. The incompetent NDA govt of 15 years have ruined Bihar," an elated Tejashwi tweeted on Tuesday .

At Goh in Aurangabad, Tejashwi raised slogans asking the people to dump the incompetent Nitish Kumar govt.

In a typical style of his father Lalu Prasad, Tejashwi exhorted the youths to bring about a change. "Their enthusiasm, passion, love and support show that they need development, education, health, employment, jobs and a golden future."

Some poll analysts said that if NDA leaders continue parroting the same speeches, crowds wouldn't arrive at their rallies. Quoting a recent example, they said hardly hundreds of people were seen when junior Home minister Nityananda Rai reached Hajipur to address an election rally. ENS

Office of Kashmir Times sealed in Srinagar, editor calls it 'vendetta'

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE J&K authorities have sealed the office of Kashmir Times, one of the prominent and oldest English newspapers in Jammu and Kashmir, in Srinagar.

Anuradha Bhasin, the executive editor of the daily, dubbed the government's action as "vendetta for speaking out". "The Estates Deptt locked our office in Srinagar without any due process of cancellation & eviction, same way as I was evicted from a flat in Jammu, where my belongings including valuables were handed over to "new allottee". Vendetta for speaking out! No due process followed. How peevish," she tweeted.

Incidentally, the sealing comes a few weeks after Bhasin was evicted from a government flat at Jammu allotted to her in 2000. Bhasin has been critical of the government's policies after Article 370 revocation last year. She had challenged the internet ban in the Supreme Court.

According to the Kashmir Times management, the Srinagar office was sealed on Monday evening without serving any cancellation or eviction notice or following any due process of law. "Nothing in writing was given to the publication."

The newspaper was published simultaneously from Srinagar and Jammu but the Srinagar edition was suspended from March due to the Covid lockdown.

It is the second media office to face such action after an office of a local news agency was locked in Srinagar last week.

An official of the Estates Department said that Kashmir Times had two quarters in the Press Enclave and one of them was taken back by the department "amicably".

'Ready to quit or be dismissed for Punjab farmers'

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

CHIEF Minister Amarinder Singh on Tuesday said he was prepared to resign or be dismissed rather than bow to injustice towards Punjab's farmers.

He warned of possible disruption to the state's peace and threat to national security as a result of the farm laws, pointing out that "nobody can tolerate religious hurt and attacks on livelihood". "I am not afraid of resigning. I am not afraid of my government being dismissed. But I will not let the farmers suffer. I had chosen to quit at the time of Operation Blue Star instead of accepting or endorsing the assault on Sikh ethos," Amarinder said on the second day of the Assembly session while presenting four Bills.

Cautioning the Centre against allowing the situation to get out of hand, Amarinder said if the farm laws are not revoked, angry youth can come out on the streets to join the farmers, leading to chaos. "The situation has the potential to disrupt the peaceful atmosphere", he warned, drawing a parallel with the situation in the 1980s and 1990s. "Both China and Pakistan will collude and try to take advantage of any disruption to the state's peace, which would pose a serious threat to national security."

Amarinder appealed to the agitating farmers to end the Rail Roko and blockades and allow movement of essential commodities. "We have stood with you, now it is your turn to stand with us."

Later, the chief minister met Governor V P Singh Badnore after four legislations were passed in the Assembly. Accompanied by MLAs including those from the AAP, Amarinder said he was hopeful the governor "will listen to the voice of Punjab."

Farmers' fight should be against Delhi: Capt

THESE bills are aimed at preventing any damage to farmers in Punjab because of the Central laws.

All 115 MLAs unanimously voted in favour of the resolution and the bills, except two BJP MLAs who were absent during the special session of the Vidhan Sabha.

Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh, who moved the resolution against the Centre's farm law, urged farmer unions to allow movement of trains for the transportation of coal, urea and foodgrains, pointing out that the state government had already lost ₹40,000 crore due to the 'rail roko' protests.

He pointed out that the farmers' fight should be against Delhi, and not Punjab.

The House also passed the Code of Civil Procedure (Punjab Amendment) Bill, 2020, which aims to provide relief to farmers from attachment of their land not exceeding 2.5 acres. The Vidhan Sabha session has been extended by a day. The CM said his government will bring more pro-farm and pro-poor bills in the House on Wednesday.

Chhattisgarh Guv says no to special session

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

IN a significant development, Chhattisgarh Governor Anusuiya Uike on Tuesday cited two points of consultation for returning the Bhupesh Baghel-led Congress government's proposal to convene a special session of the Legislative Assembly,

The Raj Bhavan said that there is no specific information given with reference to calling the special session of the House.

While returning the file of the state government, the Governor stated that the Monsoon session of the Chhattisgarh Assembly was held 58 days ago. "So under what circumstances, the special session of the House needs to be immediately convened?" the Governor asked on the proposal, which was sent to the Raj Bhavan on Monday.

The Congress government has proposed to call the special Assembly session on October 27-28. Earlier this month, the Bhupesh Baghel Cabinet had rejected the recently passed three agri laws and decided to go for a legislation of its own farm rules by calling a special session of the House.

Reacting to the development, Baghel said the governor cannot stop a government with full majority from convening assembly sessions, but added that his government will resend the file with answers to the queries. "Permission should be given (to convene the session)," the Chhattisgarh CM added.

End govt aid to madrasas as they breed terrorism: MP minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

A Madhya Pradesh minister has accused the madrasas of breeding fundamentalism and terrorism in the country, and that the state funding to madrasas should stop.

The statement of Minister of State for Tourism and Culture Usha Thakur came days after Assam's BJP government reportedly announced shutting down of government-run madrasas and Sanskrit schools.

"Saara kattarwaad aur saare aatankwadi madarson mein pale aur badhe hain. Jammu and Kashmir ko aatankwaadiyon ki factory banakar rakh diya thaa (all fundamentalism and terrorists have been bred in madarssas. Entire Jammu and Kashmir was turned into a factory of terrorism)," Thakur told journalists in Indore.

"All those madrasas who cannot go with nationalism and mainstream society will be merged with the existing education system to ensure all-round progress of the society," she said. "Assam has shown it with success, so all those institutions creating hurdles in the way of nationalism will have to be shut in national interest."

When asked whether she was in favour of shutting down madrasas across the country, including MP, the minister said, "The government support to madrasas needs to end, as the Waqf Boards are strong enough to run such institutions to promote their religious education in the spirit of the Constitution."

She also advocated common education to children of all religions, as religion-based education was promoting fundamentalism and hatred in the society.

The minister, who represents Mhow seat, has been in news for making controversial statements. A few years back, she had demanded a ban on Muslim youths from entering Navratri Garba venues. In May 2019, she had termed Mahatma Gandhi's assassin Nathuram Godse a nationalist.

Later, senior Congress leader and former state minister Sajjan Singh Verma said Thakur was speaking the RSS language as she has always been a "toy in the hands of the Sangh." Another Congress leader Narendra Saluja claimed that the BJP is trying to give a communal colour to the state bypolls and urged the EC to act on the matter.

'Bangladeshis' dragged into boundary row

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE Assam-Mizoram boundary dispute has shifted focus to "Bangladeshis" with a political party in Mizoram accusing Assam of harbouring "illegal immigrants" for vote-bank politics.

Accusing Assam police and forest department of burning down the houses of Mizofarmers and destroying their crops, the youth wing of Zoram People's Movement (ZPM) wondered for how long the Assam government would "harbour Bangladeshi refugees" as vote-banks.

"We request it to cease sheltering Bangladeshi immigrants as they would, in all certainty, become thorns to the people of the Northeast at large," the ZPM's youth wing said.

Bastar Dussehra cherishes rich cultural rituals

For the first time, a 75-day long observation of Bastar Dussehra will be missing the usual gaiety due to the SOPs in place for the Covid pandemic. However, there is no diminution on following the essential rituals and rich cultural traditions. "All ceremonial devotions, rituals will be followed as per the cultural customs adhering to strict norms. Every event will be judiciously executed," said Bastar collector Rajat Bansal. The Dussehra in Bastar is more about indigenous presiding goddess Ma Danteshwari and nature, rather than marking Ram's victory over Ravana.

US aggressively takes aim at Google search & ad biz

Justice Dept files strongest lawsuit it has against what it says are the firm's abuses of monopoly power; timing smacks of poll politics

WHAT IS ANTITRUST AND WHY IS GOOGLE IN TROUBLE NOW?

- Antitrust laws want to ensure an adequate degree of competition exists in an market so that consumers can get fair prices
- Any company or group of companies can create a monopoly if its presence dominates a market
- The current lawsuit alleges that Google uses billions of dollars collected from advertisers to pay phone manufacturers to ensure Google is the default search engine on browsers

WASHINGTON

THE Justice Department on Tuesday sued Google for antitrust violations, alleging that it abused its dominance in online search and advertising to stifle competition and harm consumers.

The lawsuit marks the government's most significant act to protect competition since its groundbreaking case against Microsoft more than 20 years ago. It could be an opening salvo ahead of other major government antitrust actions, given ongoing investigations of major tech companies including Apple, Amazon and Facebook at both the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission.

"Google is the gateway to the internet and a search advertising behemoth," US Deputy Attorney General Jeff Rosen told reporters. "It has maintained its monopoly power through exclusionary practices that are harmful to competition."

Lawmakers and consumer advocates have long accused Google, whose corporate parent Alphabet Inc. has a market value just over $1 trillion, of abusing its dominance in online search and advertising to stifle competition and boost its profits.

The Justice Department isn't seeking specific changes in Google's structure or other remedies at this point, but isn't ruling out seeking additional relief, officials said.

The case was filed in federal court in Washington, D.C. Eleven states, all with Republican attorneys general, joined the federal government in the lawsuit.

President Donald Trump's administration has long had Google in its sights. One of Trump's top economic advisers said two years ago that the White House was considering whether Google searches should be subject to government regulation. Trump has often criticised Google, recycling unfounded claims by conservatives that the search giant is biased against conservatives and suppresses their viewpoints, interferes with US elections and prefers working with the Chinese military over the Pentagon.

Rosen told reporters that allegations of anti-conservative bias are "a totally separate set of concerns" from the issue of competition.

Other advocates, however, said the Justice Department's timing — it's only two weeks to Election Day — smacked of politics. The government's "narrow focus and alienation of the bipartisan state attorneys general is evidence of an unserious approach driven by politics and is likely to result in nothing more than a choreographed slap on the wrist for Google," Alex Harman, a competition policy advocate at Public Citizen, said. AP

JOE LAYS LOW BEFORE DEBATE, DON BARNSTORMS COUNTRY

WILMINGTON

US President Donald Trump and former Vice President Joe Biden | AP

DEMOCRAT Joe Biden hunkered down Tuesday for the second straight day instead of campaigning two weeks before the US election, as he likely prepares for his final debate with President Donald Trump this week.

The campaign called a "lid" for in-person events -- meaning a candidate has no more planned appearances for the day -- at 9:30am (13:30 GMT), although there was still potential for the former vice president to conduct local interviews.

The 77-year-old also was off the campaign trail Monday, only leaving his Delaware home to conduct a television interview.

Biden, who has a robust advantage in national polls against Trump but narrower leads in swing states like Florida, held two events in battleground North Carolina on Sunday. But he stayed home in Wilmington on Saturday.

The Biden tactics -- low-key events with small audiences wearing masks and keeping respectful social distance, mixed with days of Biden down time -- mark a sharp contrast to the president's frenetic pace.

Trump, 74 and scrambling to make up lost ground, has been barnstorming (rapdily touring a region for political campaigns) the nation virtually non-stop ever since his doctors gave him the green light nine days after his Covid-19 infection was diagnosed on October 1.

The president was in a different swing state every day last week. On Sunday he campaigned in Nevada, where he called Republicans "stupid" for publicly criticising him, and launched bitter attacks on Biden Monday at two packed rallies in Arizona.

Trump was to hold a rally Tuesday in swing state Pennsylvania.

Both men are gearing up for their final debate Thursday. Organizers announced that they will mute the microphones of Biden and Trump when they are not answering questions, to avoid the interruptions that disrupted the first debate. AFP

FREE DRUGS, NOT VACCINES, ARE NEW POLL PROMISE

- Around the end of summer, Trump began pushing for a rushed approval of Covid-19 vaccine before the election on Nov 3, hoping that would lift his re-election prospects
- But in his rallies now there has been a significant shift, with the president calling his experimental drug therapy a Covid-19 "cure"
- After he was hospitalised due to Covid-19, he was given drug cocktail developed by Regeneron — which Trump is now promising free access to for seniors in Florida
- Experts say Trump may have been told about the dangers of cutting corners with vaccines and subsequently may have changed tack

Minorities have no protection from forced conversions: Parl panel

A parliamentary committee in Pakistan has said that the country has not fulfilled its responsibility to protect religious minorities from forced conversions, according to a media report on Tuesday. The parliamentary committee on forced religious conversions headed by Senator Anwarul Haq Kakar recently visited parts of Sindh where forced conversions of young Hindu girls have been reported. During a media interaction on Monday, Kakar said that "the state has not fulfilled its responsibility to protect religious minorities from forced conversions", The Dawn News reported. He, however, noted that most of the cases of conversions "have some degree of willingness". Replying to a question, Kakar said there is a thin line between consent and exploitation.

Govt shuts down news site tied to ex-PM, protests pause

A Thai news outlet connected to exiled former premier Thaksin Shinawatra was ordered to close Tuesday over its coverage of anti-government protests that have rocked the capital for nearly a week. Voice TV, a website partly owned by Thaksin's family, was one of four media organisations under investigation because of their reporting of the ongoing protest movement. Thousands of protesters have massed daily in the capital since last week, flouting an emergency edict prohibiting gatherings of more than four. But they appeared to take a break on Tuesday.

Goldman Sachs to pay US govt $2.8 bn over 1MDB scandal: Report

Global financial titan Goldman Sachs is preparing to admit wrongdoing in the massive 1MDB Malaysian bribery scandal and pay the US government $2.8 billion, The Wall Street Journal reported Tuesday. The deal would end the criminal probe into the corruption case involving the Malaysian government's investment fund, the newspaper reported, citing people familiar with the matter. An Asian subsidiary involved in the case is expected to plead guilty this week, allowing Goldman to avoid pleading guilty -- a key development, as such a plea would damage its ability to do business, according to the report. The Justice Department has said more than $4.5 billion was stolen from 1MDB by high-level officials at the fund and their associates.

Israel, UAE sign pact on travelling sans visa

TEL AVIV

ISRAEL and the United Arab Emirates agreed Monday to visa-free travel, an unprecedented arrangement between Israel and an Arab state, signed after the first ever official UAE delegation landed in Tel Aviv.

The visit, hailed as a "glorious day for peace" by Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, came after Israel and the Gulf state agreed to normalise ties in a deal inked at the White House last month.

With their economies hard-hit by the coronavirus pandemic, the UAE and Israel are hoping for rapid dividends from the normalisation deal -- which broke years of Arab consensus that there should be no relations with the Jewish state until it makes peace with the Palestinians.

Palestine Liberation Organisation senior member Wassel Abu Youssef told AFP the Emirati visit was a "another stab in the back" of the Palestinian cause. The UAE became the third Arab state to establish ties with Israel, followed soon after by Bahrain. While Israel has peace deals with neighbouring Egypt and Jordan, it requires citizens of both to obtain visas before entry.

Shortly after greeting the UAE delegation at Ben Gurion airport near Tel Aviv, a mask-wearing Netanyahu vowed that visa-free travel will "offer a huge boost for business (and) tourism".

Israel and the UAE also signed accords on investment protection, science and technology, and a civil aviation deal authorising 28 flights a week between the two countries.

Israeli carrier Arkia later announced plans to run seven weekly flights from Tel Aviv to Dubai, beginning in Jan. AFP

US industry groups sue Trump admin over H-1B

WASHINGTON

SEVERAL individuals and organisations, including the US Chambers of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, have filed a lawsuit against the Trump administration's recent rules related to the H-1B visa, terming them "arbitrary" and "haphazard" regulations that will undermine high skilled immigration into America.

Early this month, the Trump administration announced new restrictions on H-1B non-immigrant visa programme,which is likely to affect thousands of Indian IT professionals.

The interim final rule announced by the Department of Homeland Security will narrow the definition of 'speciality occupation" as Congress intended by closing the overbroad definition that allowed companies to game the system.

It will also require companies to make 'real" offers to "real employees," by closing loopholes and preventing the displacement of the American workers.

The lawsuit filed by the US Chambers of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) and several other organisations in the Northern District of Columbia on Monday alleges that "harmful and haphazard rules on H-1B visas" if left in place, would affect hundreds of thousands of American-based workers.

"We need high-skilled innovators now more than ever, and the administration's attempt to rush these rules forward without properly considering their impact on thousands of people on the front lines of developing vaccines and treatments and making critical supplies, as well as saving lives in our hospitals, could have devastating consequences at a critical moment in our history," said NAM senior vice president and general counsel Linda Kelly.

Rewriting laws through a "dark-of-night-style" rulemaking leads to dangerous policy outcomes, and this pair of interim final rules is an illegal attempt to dismantle legal immigration, Kelly said. PTI

US, Russia close to deal on extending nuclear treaty

MOSCOW

RUSSIA said on Tuesday it's ready to accept a US proposal to freeze the number of nuclear warheads and extend the two nations' last arms control pact for one year and Washington responded that it's prepared to make a quick deal.

US State Department spokeswoman Morgan Ortagus welcomed the Russian offer and said that the US is ready to quickly clinch an agreement. "We appreciate the Russian Federation's willingness to make progress on the issue of nuclear arms control," she said. "The US is prepared to meet immediately to finalize a verifiable agreement. We expect Russia to empower its diplomats to do the same."

The statement from the Russian Foreign Ministry marked a shift in Moscow's position after Russia and the US rejected each other's offers regarding the New START treaty that expires in Feb.

The ministry noted that it's ready for a deal if the US does the same and doesn't put forward any extra demands, the statement read. AP

Changes to the constitution need referendum: Lanka SC

COLOMBO

SRI Lanka's highest court has ruled that four sections of a proposed amendment to the constitution that would consolidate power in the president's hands will need approval in a public referendum to become law because they are against the people's sovereignty.

The Supreme Court's ruling, announced Tuesday by the parliamentary speaker, said that proposed sections that relieve the president from being responsible to Parliament and give him immunity from lawsuits and the power to dissolve Parliament a year after parliamentary elections are against public sovereignty.

The court said that a referendum would be required if the sections are not appropriately changed.

The constitution now allows the president's actions to be questioned in court and disallows him from dissolving Parliament until six months before the legislature's five-year term ends.

The top court, however, has allowed many of the contentious proposals, including giving the president the power to hold any number of ministries, appoint and sack ministers, and appoint top judges and officials to the country's key institutions.

Parliamentary Speaker Mahinda Yapa Abeywardena said that some sections can be rectified through parliamentary debate, and others according to the Supreme Court's instructions.

Parliament will debate the amendment on Wednesday and Thursday, and a vote on a rectified bill is scheduled for Thursday evening. Support by at least 150 lawmakers will be needed to pass the amendment, as well as a referendum if required.

The amendment has been opposed by influential Buddhist clergy. AP

HUL chief says the worst of the crisis is now behind us

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AFTER months of turbulence, there are now clear signs of an uptick in demand in the fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) industry. "...We believe that the worst is behind us and we are cautiously optimistic on demand recovery," acknowledged Sanjiv Mehta, chairman and managing director of Hindustan Unilever Limited (HUL) on Tuesday.

The country's largest FMCG firm reported a 8.6 per cent rise in consolidated net profit to ₹1,974 crore in second quarter. Revenue stood at ₹11,510 crore, up 15.19 per cent.

The acquisition of GSK Consumer Healthcare business, including brands like Horlicks and Boost, in April proved highly beneficial for HUL since a major chunk of its revenue growth during the second quarter was due to the growth in the health and hygiene portfolio. HUL's domestic consumer growth, excluding the impact of acquisitions, was just 3 per cent. Including the acquisitions, the same was 16 per cent, the company said.

Segment-wise health, hygiene and nutrition segment, which is 80 per cent of its portfolio, grew 10 per cent on a year-on-year (y-o-y) basis. On the other hand, contraction in its discretionary category, which is 20 per cent of the portfolio, narrowed. In the September quarter the decline was 25 per cent y-o-y compared to a 45 per cent decline in the June quarter. "In the context of a challenging economic environment, our growth has been competitive and profitable. The operations and service levels are now back to pre-Covid levels and we have accelerated the pace of digitising our operations under the 'Re-imagine HUL' agenda," said Mehta. The management pointed out that while rural markets have been resilient, the demand in urban India (especially in metropolitan cities) remains muted.

The Food & Refreshment segment registered 83 per cent, thanks to the trend in 'in-home consumption'. However, the company expects demand for items such as skin care and deodorants to improve as people start moving out of their homes. In the laundry segment, too, people are buying less detergent because of confined living. The skin cleansing segment, however, grew in double digits due to a very strong performance in the 'Lifebuoy' and 'Lux' ranges. Oral care also grew in double digits with accelerated growth in 'Close Up'.

Meanwhile, HUL is witnessing raw material inflation in some categories. "Our strong savings funnel, judicious and calibrated pricing in tea, synergies in nutrition have enabled us to successfully manage headwinds of commodity inflation and adverse mix," it said.

No quick relief in sight for fuel consumers

Officials say that the Centre may have to increase petroleum taxes further if another stimulus package is needed

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

FUEL consumers are unlikely to get any relief as far as petrol and diesel prices are concerned, with government sources stating that the cash-strapped Centre is in no mood to reduce taxes on fuel in case another stimulus is required. According to sources in the finance ministry, during a recent meeting, the Department of Revenue even indicated that there is still some headroom for the government to increase petroleum taxes.

"The government has so far been prudent in its measures. Unlike other countries, we have not increased tax. In case additional stimulus is required, we still have some headroom, without increasing the borrowing limit. We can increase duty on petroleum by ₹3-4 which will help us generate about ₹50,000 crore," a senior official in the finance ministry said.

The Centre has already received Parliament's approval and may raise duties by another ₹3-6 per litre when necessary.

The Centre on May 5 had already raised excise duties on petrol and diesel by an unprecedented level of ₹10 and ₹13 per litre respectively. According to experts, even by the conservative estimates, this is expected to provide additional revenue of about ₹1.75 lakh crore to the central exchequer in the current fiscal year.

The Centre has also already revised its borrowing target in the current financial year to ₹12 lakh crore against ₹7.80 lakh crore announced in the budget. And it is not just the Centre which has increased taxes on petrol and diesel, but state governments too. The taxes collected by both Centre and states this fiscal on fuel is set to be significantly higher than the previous year.

Sources have confirmed that the Finance Ministry has already rejected a proposal by the Petroleum Ministry to reduce cess on domestic crude production.

Currently, the Centre's tax on diesel (basic excise, special additional excise and road/infra cess) stands at ₹31.83/litre, against ₹15.83/litre in October 2019. Corresponding figures for petrol are ₹32.98 and ₹19.98. On Tuesday, petrol was selling at ₹81.06 per litre in Delhi and diesel at ₹79.46 per litre.

Funding for non-priority Govt schemes to be cut

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

IN yet another austerity drive, the Finance Ministry has asked government departments to be prudent when it comes to financing some of their social and cultural schemes which are not of immediate importance. The ministry has also asked all departments to submit a list of such schemes.

"This is an unprecedented crisis. So funds have to be spent prudently and judiciously. While we are continuing with important social welfare measures, the schemes which can be postponed, or where funding can wait, needs to be reviewed in the light of the present crisis. We have asked for a list of such schemes and institutions which are being funded by the central government," a senior official from the Department of Expenditure told this publication.

According to sources, while the instructions are applicable for all ministries, the worst hit will is set to be the Ministry of Culture, the Ministry of Environment, Ministry of Tribal Affairs, and the Ministry of Water Resources.

Last week, Expenditure secretary T V Somanathan had recommended in a report that the environment ministry should disengage 23 autonomous bodies, merge 109 others into 26 bodies, and close several in order to reduce expenditure. "Disengagement... with a three-year timeline and a gradual 25% budget reduction each year is recommended," the report had said.

Government officials claim that this will have some impact on the funding for some cultural programmes and grants to NGOs who are working in the segments.

"Certainly there will be an impact but we are being prudent. Once the economy bounces back to normal, we will resume all funding," the official claimed.

Despite all the measures announced by the government, capital expenditure declined 39 per cent in the second quarter (Q2) and, last month, it had extended curbs on spending imposed on departments from to the quarter ending December 2020 too due to "acute cash stress". It had also banned the creation of new posts in the central government, and asked ministries to reduce the number of consultants.

Siemens Healthineers to set up research hub in B'luru

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

GERMAN medtech firm Siemens Healthineers will invest ₹1,300 crore (EUR 160 million) over the next five years in India as the company plans to set up an innovation hub in Bengaluru. The hub will focus on bringing advanced digital innovation to the healthcare sector. The company also said it would be hiring 1,800 people with digital skillsets over the course of the next 10 years in India and noted that the country plays an important role in its 2025 strategy.

"This investment is the largest we have ever made in India... The innovation hub in Bengaluru will demonstrate our commitment to advance healthcare through cutting-edge digital technologies as well as through accessible and affordable innovations driven from India," said Elisabeth Staudinger, President Asia Pacific, Siemens Healthineers.

Bengaluru will be the fourth innovation hub that the German healthtech firm has globally, with the others located in the United States, Germany, and China. The Bengaluru hub will include centers of competence in digital technologies.

Its current Bengaluru factory manufactures entry-level medical systems designed, developed, and made in India, and sold in South-East Asia, Africa, Eastern Europe, and South America. It also says it plans to expand its product portfolio to address the challenge of affordability that is specific to these markets.

"Closely integrating product development and clinical value creation at the new Bengaluru campus will significantly increase our ability to add more value to our customers," Vivek Kanade, EVP, Siemens Healthineers, stated.

India to link power grid with Middle East, SEA

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

INDIA is drawing up plans to link its electricity grid with Gulf countries to the west and South East Asian nations on the other side in order to export excess electricity, especially from a raft of renewable energy projects coming up in Gujarat and Rajasthan.

The government, as part of the 'One Sun, One World, One grid' initiative, wants the Indian Grid to be connected with the Middle East, South Asia, and South East Asian grids to share solar and other renewable energy resources.

"Some 40-50 GW solar power projects are in the pipeline in Rajasthan and Gujarat. these can be sold in large markets like Delhi or Maharashtra, or exported to Gulf countries which have different peak hours once a grid connecting them is established," said Amit Jain, Senior Energy Specialist with the World Bank, which is partnering India in this initiative.

Officials from the Ministry of New and Renewable Energy said they would be making an assessment of renewable energy potential of countries in the region and study how they can share power to meet even peak electricity demand. "Since the sun does not always shine, and the wind does not always blow, nor does factory demand for electricity remain the same, we have to look for ways of either storing electricity or exporting it when not required. At the same time, we will need power when solar energy production is low (and can) import it from other time zones as we move towards renewables," an official said.

Officials indicated that the thinking is that Gulf countries now want to move away from fossil fuel by focusing on renewable power. Solar and wind energy plants were being set up in Saudi Arabia, Abu Dhabi, and Dubai among others.

"It is our intention to work on a pre-feasibility study with India and the ISA (International Solar Alliance) on the India-Middle East-Africa grid which would involve an undersea cable," said Jain. India is already linked with Bangladesh and Nepal through similar grids. Officials believe that linking up with the Southern East Asian grid would not be too difficult.

The SE Asian nations on the other hand, along with Australia, also have plans to build a 3,700 kilometer ASEAN-Australia power undersea cable link to transmit electricity generated by a 10,000 MW solar farm proposed to be set up in Australia.

Ather rolls out buy-back scheme, slashes prices

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

IN a bid to make its e-scooters more attractive to customers, electric vehicle maker Ather Energy on Tuesday launched an assured buyback program for the Ather 450x model, revised its subscriptions plans, and also slashed prices for the Ather 450+. Ather Energy is guaranteeing a buyback price of ₹85,000 at the end of three years for the Ather 450X.

According to CEO and co-founder of the company, Tarun Mehta, the buyback program is the first of its kind in the country's EV segment and is aimed at accelerating EV adoption in India.

"We believe Ather Energy's electric scooters are going to have a fantastic value for years and will keep improving with new features which we will roll out as over the air upgrades. And to strengthen that assurance we are announcing a resale guarantee," said Mehta.

Ather's subscription plans have also been revised and made more flexible in order to match the usage of the consumer. The plans now offer four independent packs that the customer can choose from based on their usage, starting at ₹125 per month. The EV manufacturer said that it will expand also its scooter leasing services to more cities.

India Inc set to ramp up spending on voice capabilities

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIAN companies plan to spend 2.6 per cent of their revenues on building voice capabilities over the next five years in order to fuel the next phase of growth, a Cognizant survey revealed on Tuesday.

This spending is fuelled by high expectations since they aim to drive six per cent of their revenue through voice during this period, it added.

"Whether digital or brick-and-mortar, businesses will have to pivot to voice to be heard by their customers in the present and future. While 15 per cent of respondents in India already have a formal voice strategy in place, another 58 per cent of businesses (regional average 50%) will join those ranks within the next 1-2 years," said Manish Bahl, associate vice-president, Center for the Future of Work, Asia Pacific and the Middle East, Cognizant.

A total of 1,400 marketing and IT executives across 10 countries in the region were surveyed. According to the survey, Covid-19 has served as an inflection point for voice adoption, with 92 per cent of Indian respondents believing that the shift from "touch" to "voice" will only accelerate further. 70 per cent view voice as important or extremely important for their future.

"Just like companies needed an internet strategy in the '90s, a search strategy in 2000, they now need a voice strategy," Bahl added.

Manufacturers saw sales fall 41.1% in Q1 FY21: RBI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

SALES of manufacturing companies declined by 41.1 per cent in the first quarter of FY21, while most service companies in the non-IT sector also reported a contraction, revealed RBI data released Tuesday.

"Aggregate sales of 1,619 manufacturing companies recorded a sharp contraction of 41.1 per cent (Y-o-Y) in Q1 2020-21 following 15.6 per cent decline in Q4 2019-20 reflecting the impact of the pandemic induced lockdown," said a statement from the central bank on the performance of the private corporate business sector.

Aggregate sales of 1,619 manufacturing companies recorded a sharp contraction of 41.1 per cent (Y-o-Y) in Q1 2020-21

Reserve Bank of India report

The contraction was broad-based—with only pharmaceutical companies posting higher sales on both an annual and sequential (Q-o-Q) basis.

The data on the performance of the private corporate sector was taken from the abridged quarterly financial results of 2,536 listed non-government non-financial companies. It may be noted that markets regulator SEBI had extended the deadline for the submission of financial results for Q1FY21 to September 15, 2020 due to the pandemic.

Non-IT services companies also registered a sharp contraction of 41 per cent in their nominal sales. The contraction was across services except for telecommunication companies.

On the other hand, sales growth of IT sector firms remained in positive terrain, but moderated to 3.2 per cent in the April-June quarter on an annual basis. The RBI further said lower business operations led to a decline in the operating profits of manufacturing and non-IT services companies, that of IT firm rose 9.4 per cent.

Sindhu in London with 2021 in mind

Shuttler PV Sindhu on Tuesday said she is in London to work on her nutrition and recovery needs with Asian leg of the BWF's calendar, scheduled to be held early next year, in mind. The reigning world champ also denied reports of a fallout with her family and coaches.

Roar of the Lion: Final chapter

Only team to make it to IPL play-offs every season, CSK's early exit will be end of an era

ATREYO MUKHOPADHYAY @ Chennai

IN the fast-paced world of T20 cricket, it's difficult to find space for something called a long reign. Things change quickly, leaving little room for one to occupy a place of prominence for a considerable period of time. Ideas and innovations keep evolving, to make this format of cricket a breeding ground of the 'new'.

Chennai Super Kings is an exception. In a competition like IPL where almost all teams are evenly matched, their consistency defies notions. Mumbai Indians have won the title on more occasions, but making it to last four all 10 times they have been part of IPL is unreal. Even if records are meant to be broken, matching this is more improbable than 300 in 20 overs in the near future.

Like all good things coming to an end, CSK's separation from the IPL play-offs is more than a possibility. Winning four remaining matches will take them to 14 points. In the past teams have qualified with even 12. But there is something in their display suggesting that the incredible run is about to snap. If that happens, it will be the end of era in the brief history of T20 cricket.

"It's pretty down, which is fair enough," said coach Stephen Fleming of the team's morale after Monday's defeat against Rajasthan Royals. "We were outplayed. Usually, you get a bit of hope and momentum when you get positives. It's hard to be upbeat (under the circumstances). We have to rely on other results and hope for changes in the form of our own team."

Foremost among the reasons would be the waning powers of their talisman. Captain cool and keeper reliable with the ability to pull off smart catches and stumpings even at 39, at the end of the day, MS Dhoni is MS Dhoni because of the impact his bat made. The restrained destruction he caused as a batsman helped him tower above competition and put him on a pedestal reserved for the select few. The IPL has seen him do this numerous times.

Dhoni the batsman is not the same force. Epitome of confidence at his peak, he appears unsure at the crease. His area of the pitch, from where the ball would disappear if he so wished, has become smaller. He will still come good at times, but whether that will be enough for the team is a question. Running between wickets, his biggest strength, is also deserting him. When the most influential figure ceases to be him, team doesn't remain the same.

One can say CSK do remain the same! As in, they don't usually change personnel. That sell-by date is also nearing the end. While others benefited from young blood, CSK stuck to tested ones, which paid dividends until last year. But in 2020, there is no Shreyas Iyer or Shubman Gill or Devdutt Padikkal in Chennai. Barring Deepak Chahar to an extent, the team owners did not invest in youth. For a successful franchise, not building for the future is a shortcoming and it is showing this year.

Missing Suresh Raina was a big blow. Harbhajan Singh is another who could have made his experience count. But then, looking at these two as could-have-been saviours is looking back rather than at the future.

Shikhar Dhawan became the first player to hit back-to-back IPL tons

Punjab beat Delhi

It's great for a team if its opener registers back-to-back tons. Shikhar Dhawan became the first batsman in IPL to achieve the feat, but Delhi Capitals failed to capitalise on that in Dubai on Tuesday.

Despite him hitting an unbeaten 106 off 61, the table toppers settled for 164/5. The other batsmen accumulated 54 off 59. That proved costly, as riding Nicholas Pooran's 28-ball 53, Glenn Maxwell's patient 32, Chris Gayle's 13-ball 29 and contributions from here and there, Kings XI posted a five-wicket win with an over to spare. A fourth win in 10 matches lifted them to fifth on the table and kept them in the race for a last-four berth. That Kings XI kept the total within manageable limits was due to Mohammed Shami and Maxwell.

Brief scores: DC 164/5 (Dhawan 106 n.o) lost to KXIP 167/5 (Pooran 53).

KKR VS RCB

Time to consolidate

Bangalore have been in the top-half of the table thanks to some sensible cricket. They look to end their title jinx and matches like these will indicate if they have the killer instinct or not.

Need to step up

Kokata are in fourth spot. They need wins to remain in the top-four, else they will find themselves in a battle with two others for the fourth spot. Consistency has been their issue.

Ministry recognition for 11 more NSFs

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

In its fifth affidavit to the Delhi High Court on Tuesday, the sports ministry has decided to give recognition to 11 more National Sports Federations. With this, the total number of NSFs getting recognition has increased to 41. However, out of the 11, eight have been given recognition only until December 31, as elections in these federations are due. The submission is in response to a case filed by sports lawyer Rahul Mehra.

What seems interesting is that the ministry in its affidavit decided to revoke the suspension of School Games Federation of India (SGFI), which was suspended for not following the sports code and complaints of mismanagement. The ministry in its affidavit in June said SGFI's suspension can be revoked if certain members of a contingent to Adelaide were suspended for five years. Their recognition is also until December 31.

Seven other NSFs given extension till December 31 are Mallakham Federation of India, Billiard and Snooker Federation of India, Roll Ball Federation of India, Bridge Federation of India, Cycle Polo Federation of India and Amateur Baseball Federation of India.

The NSFs that are going to get one-year extension are Badminton Association of India, Tennis Ball Cricket Federation of India and Amateur Kabaddi Federation. Rowing Federation of India and Indian Golf Union, who were given recognition in June before it was nullified by the court, too were given recognition. The ministry had initially given provisional recognition to 54 NSFs in May.

CHAMPS AND PRETENDERS

Six-time winners Bayern Munich take on Atletico Madrid in their opening group stage match of the Champions League on Wednesday. Liverpool and Manchester City will also be in action. Talking points...

STIFF TEST FOR BAYERN

After having less than a month between last season's final and the first Bundesliga weekend, Bayern's relentless schedule has continued apace. Wednesday's game will be their third in six days. The holders are likely to face a tricky test against an Atletico side who have conceded just one in four games this season. Bayern have let in five in four so far and there have been question marks over their defense. Returning Joshua Kimmich will bring more stability to Bayern's midfield.

CITY CHASE ELUSIVE CROWN

Despite all their domestic success in recent years, City – who host Porto in their opening match – have never gone beyond the semifinals and Pep Guardiola has found the competition equally vexing for much of the last decade. The renowned manager last won the title in 2011. And they have had a tough start to the season, 2-5 loss against Leicester showed they're still vulnerable at the back. But Sergio Aguero's return is a big boost. Guardiola's hopes of a serious challenge hinge on the Argentine striker staying fit.

BIG MISS FOR REDS

Injured Virgil van Dijk's absence could prove to be a severe blow for Liverpool. He was one of the main reason behind their 2018-19 success; he was adjudged defender/player of the season then. There are reports that his defensive- partner Joel Matip missed training. Fabinho could play as makeshift defender alongside Joe Gomez against Ajax. After a big win in domestic league, Ajax will have nothing to lose and could exploit void left by Van Dijk.

Mental relief that I'm able to play: Ghosal

SRINIDHI PR @ Chennai

PLAYING in the new normal has posed different challenges for athletes. Participating in an event abroad now requires athletes to be mentally prepared to spend days confined to a hotel. With that, there is a possibility that they could experience mental fatigue if they are not prepared for it.

India's top men's squash player, Saurav Ghosal, was prepared for this. "It is a question of perception. It is difficult to be in a bio-bubble," explained Ghosal, who spent three weeks in hotels in Cairo and Dubai. "You are stuck in a room all alone. But if you have a perspective, you can handle the situation. I'm glad that we are at least able to play. I find ways to get through the day."

Currently in Cairo, he took part in the recently-concluded Egyptian Open where he went down in the third round. His next event is the Qatar Classic which begins in Doha from November 1 (Joshna Chinappa also took part in the Egyptian Open but she is back in India). The 34-year-old decided to stay and train in Egypt, than come back to India before leaving for Doha. Reading biographies, watching movies on online streaming platforms form a part of his routine now.

"At home, you have a family and that helped us get through the lockdown. Here it's different, we are alone. I knew what was going to happen. I had prepared mentally and I managed pretty okay. There were times when I felt low. But as a sportsperson, we are mentally stronger," elaborated the World No 13.

As the focus shifts to the Qatar event, Ghosal aims to do better with more training sessions under his belt. He will leave for Doha on October 28.

"It was a close match (in third round). I trained only thrice a week in Cairo before the event began. So, lack of match practice was one of the reasons why I think I lost. In the next tournament, I'm hopeful of a better show. Irrespective of the result, it's a mental relief that I'm able to play," said Ghosal.

FOCUS SHIFTS FROM SPIN TO PACE TREATY

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

IT'S the first match of another double-header Sunday, Sunrisers Hyderabad vs Kolkata Knight Riders. The latter, needing a win to consolidate fourth position on the table, are playing Lockie Ferguson. The Kiwi speedster, capable of generating serious heat, had been treated as a decorative piece thus far. Not anymore. After warming the bench for the first eight games, the 29-year-old was drafted in. And he was devastating: including the Super Over, his figures read 27 balls, 13 dots, five wickets, zero boundaries.

That eureka moment to field Ferguson in the first place, however, did not come from the team management. While speaking with the commentators on air, Brendon McCullum, the coach, said he got the idea after casting envious glances at Delhi Capitals and Mumbai Indians. McCullum's inference was simple. Teams with express bowlers were doing well, so why not use our own express bowler to test out his hypothesis.

McCullum's assertion is quickly becoming one of the IPL's main themes: bowlers capable of generating extreme heat lording over proceedings. Top six of seven in both the wickets and dot balls column are fast bowlers (Jofra Archer, Jasprit Bumrah, Anrich Nortje, Kagiso Rabada, Trent Boult and Mohammed Shami). Add Chris Morris and James Pattinson and as a group, they are thereabouts in most metrics used to assess the worth of a bowler.

Why is that the case in a year when all pundits predicted that the spinners would be kings? Noted international bowling coach Ian Pont puts it down to a combination of factors, with 'genuine speed' playing a crucial role. "Any bowler, whether fast or slow, needs to be able to react and respond in a live situation," he tells this daily. "Those who are able to mix things when needed — and be unpredictable — will often outwit the batsman. But genuine speed is unsettling. Pace can make players get into bad positions to strike the ball a long way. Archer and Ferguson have generated a great deal of heat and therefore pressure and that isn't always easy to score from."

While spin has held its own in the last few editions — the likes of Yuzvendra Chahal, Rashid Khan and Imran Tahir have finished among the top wicket-takers since 2015 — pace has been the single biggest currency this time. Even if the numbers can be deceiving sometimes, Dale Steyn also echoed the same sentiment during a match between Rajasthan Royals and Delhi Capitals on October 14. Archer (3/19), Rabada (1/28) and Nortje (2/33), between them, bowled three spells where the speed gun regularly went above the 150 kmph mark. In fact, Nortje touched 156 kmph, the fastest in IPL history, that night. Watching on, Steyn became a fan. "KG, Archer, Ana," he tweeted. "I'd have paid to watch them live tonight. Fast bowling is strong, and this competition is being dominated by these beasts."

Pont agrees. "In white ball cricket, if you can move it or have pace, it gives an advantage with the batsman trying to set themselves," says the coach, who spent a considerable amount of time developing a young Steyn. "The faster bowlers still have to bowl in the right areas to make it hard, but pace means your slower ball is often more dramatic."

The next challenge for the pacers is to continue this trend on tired pitches during the closing weeks of the IPL.

TITANIC CLASH

El Clasico will be strange sans fans, but expect fireworks: Former La Liga greats

MARTIN JOSEPH @ Kochi

EVEN though clubs across the world have gotten used to playing in empty stadiums due to the coronavirus, former La Liga legends feel that it would still feel strange to witness an El Clasico without fans.

El Clasico is arguably the biggest football match thanks to the history, legacy and rivalry between Real Madrid and Barcelona. The two giants will lock horns at the Camp Nou on Saturday in La Liga.

Former players who have been involved in these titanic clashes feel that the absence of fans might give a different feel to it. "Earlier, the Real Madrid-Barcelona matches had more domestic and national interest. But it started growing and became more international. It now attracts global interest and it will be widely viewed. But it will be a difficult situation for the players without the fans. It will be easier for the away team and also for the referee. The players will have to adapt but it's a shame that there won't be any fans," said former Real Madrid captain Fernando Hierro.

Hierro, who is now a La Liga ambassador, was speaking at an event organised by the league that brought together a galaxy of La Liga legends. Former Barcelona striker Samuel Eto'o suggested that the players will adapt. "It will be unique and strange to have an El Clasico without fans. But players know what they have to do and they will do their best and put out a great show," said the Cameroonian, who has also played for Real.

DAY'S DIARY

Dwarf planet Eris

On this day in 2005, a dwarf planet called Eris was discovered. Because it was close in size to Pluto, it was briefly considered the solar system's tenth planet

REDEFINING PLANETS

Eris was the troublemaker that led to Pluto's reclassification. After its discovery, astronomers were forced to reconsider the definition of 'planet' entirely

MULTIPLE NAMES

Before it received its official name, Eris was known by the provisional designation 2003 UB313; it was nicknamed 'Xena' by its discoverers

ATMOSPHERE

Eris revolves once about every 560 Earth years in a highly tilted, elliptical orbit. It is so far from the Sun that its atmosphere collapses and freezes, falling to the surface as snow

GAGA OVER GOMBE

Bring home the Dasara spirit with these miniature creations and dolls, handmade by rural artisans from across the country

• Vidya Iyengar

Vinay Prashant and Suvarna Kamakshi, co-founders of Studio Tamaala, in J P Nagar, took a "gamble" when they suggested to artisans to create a theme based on the Mysuru Dasara. Having cashed in on the nostalgia factor, little did they know that the gombe (dolls) sales would work in their favour, and the miniature creations would fly off the shelves. "We knew that unlike previous years, when at least 25 per cent of Bengaluru residents thronged the Mysuru Dasara celebrations, this year that would be muted. To create a sense of nostalgia, we asked the vishwakarmis (woodcraft artisans who have been associated with the royal family for hundreds of years), to recreate that setting," he says.

The highlight of their collection this year – the Yaduveer and the Krishnaraja Wadiyar dolls – are sold out. The Dasara procession, Mysuru KR Circle, Jaganmohan Palace, have been the most popular collection this year, according to Prashant. "We usually only work with artisans from Channapatna and Tamil Nadu, but this year, owing to the pandemic, we took a chance and decided to work with rural artisans across the country, including those from Kondapalli (Andhra Pradesh), Thanjavur and Panruti (Tamil Nadu), and Kolkata," he says.

The theme for the collection at the art gallery includes episodes from the Ramayana and Mahabharata, and scenes from Indian villages. With the Ayodhya temple having got sanctioned, Prashant points out that enquiries and purchases have also risen. "Ramanand Sagar's Ramayana was also aired during the lockdown, which is why we've been seeing many keen on adding these to their collection. We work with one particular artisan from Tamil Nadu who makes themed dolls from various stories of the epic – Shabri, Jataayu, Sanjeevani," he says.

– Vinay Prashant, co-founder, Studio Tamaala

The art gallery which has been working on empowering rural artisans has been delivering and shipping dolls, made from clay, lac-turned-wood and plaster, across India – Delhi, Mumbai and Chennai. Priced between ₹250 and ₹6,000, they have sold 3,000 pieces, with 500 of them from the Mysuru collection. "No one knew how this season would go, but the nostalgia behind the Mysuru collection seems to have caught the imagination of collectors," he says, adding, "Even though we figured that 50 per cent of the families we knew were going to have a low-key celebration, we are glad that this has worked in our favour. About 90 per cent of the sales have been online, with only a few wanting to come to touch and feel the items."

Replay with a twist

With minimalistic sets, this play focuses on a dialogue between two great personalities

• Express Features

Two actors, two acts and a hour-long performance. An intimate group watches, ponders and then interacts with the team. This is the setting for The Mahatma and Gurudev, a production by Bangalore Little Theatre, which will be staged on Oct. 24.

Live performances, albeit for a small group, come as a huge relief for artistes who have been yearning to perform. An abridged version of the Prophet and the Poet, which has been performed extensively, The Mahatma and Gurudev is being performed to suit these times of the pandemic. As a part of RS Connect, a community outreach programme to bring art, artistes and audience together, the play will be performed at the foyer of Ranga Shankara in JP Nagar.

Directed by Vijay Padaki, a life member of BLT and founder-trustee, storytellers Naveen Tater and Karan Singh play the two characters who emphasise the content of letters exchanged between their two characters, rather than attempting to portray Gandhi or Tagore on stage. "With minimal focus on sets, lights or costume, the focus is on the dialogue between two great personalities," says Vijay Sharma, anchor, Courtyard Theatre and children's theatre programme, and a member of theatre-in-education team. Originally written for three actors, this has been modified to be played by two. "To make it more challenging, the two actors have also switched characters," says Sharma.

This play, a project within their long-term programme, Courtyard Theatre, was started over two years ago, to reach out to audience in a variety of settings: Educational institutions, clubs, libraries, homes, hotels and resorts. "When we started the concept of Courtyard theatre two years ago, we were only looking at getting more people to watch theatre performances. Getting to an auditorium comes with its own challenges, like the city's traffic, and at the same time a number of OTT platforms to provide entertainment," he says, adding that it has worked well with the pandemic's demands.

The play will be staged on Oct. 24, 5.30 pm at Ranga Shankara, JP Nagar.

Vijay Sharma (inset); A still from The Mahatma and Gurudev

STORY TIME

The play is based on the exchange of letters and articles between Mahatma Gandhi and Rabindranath Tagore over 25 years, with the Indian freedom struggle as the backdrop. The letters reveal how the two personalities differed significantly on the form and content of the freedom movement. The differences widened over the years. The personalities, however, maintained genuine respect for each other in spite of deep differences on ideological grounds.

• Express Features

For the last few years, the Kuchipudi Parampara Foundation Trust has been showcasing diverse artistes to the city's audience through their festival, Natya Parampara Foundation. Like most events now, this festival too will assume a virtual avatar this year. The bonus? A stage that allows global artistes to also be a part of the festival.

The event will feature solo Kuchipudi presentations by Raktim Chanda, a disciple of Deepa Narayanan Sashindran; Padmaragini Puttu from Moscow; Geetha Padmakumar from Kerala; Anna Mashak from St Petersburg; and Mohiniattam by Gopika Nath from Kerala.

The event, which is in its seventh edition, has been curated by Deepa Narayanan Sashindran, a Kuchipudi exponent and life trustee of the foundation. "The highlight of the festival is the honouring of old traditional gurus of Kuchipudi village in Andhra Pradesh and outside, who are aged above 70. The intent is to share the experiences of these genius artistes, who have been almost forgotten to the next generation practitioners," she says. In addition to the performances, there will be a talk by guest guru Sailaja, a Kuchipudi exponent from Chennai, and programmes that give recognition to senior Kuchipudi guru of Kuchipudi village, Pasumarthi Keshavprasad, and Bharatanatyam danseuse Mamatha Karanth.

PARIVRTTA PARSVAKONASANA

(REVOLVED SIDE ANGLE POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'parivrtta' means 'to turn around' or 'revolve', 'parsva' means 'side or flank', 'kona', means 'angle', and 'asana' means 'pose'. It refers to a variation of the standing side-stretch yoga asanas that require balance and flexibility. In addition to its physical benefits, this pose is believed to relieve stress. Traditionally, it activates the Manipura chakra which is the body's energy and vitality centre, transporting confidence, internal strength and courage. By activating this chakra, this asana dispels fear and insecurity. It is part of the primary series of Ashtanga yoga and a key pose in other styles of yoga.

STEPS

- Start in Tadasana (Mountain Pose).
- Inhale, keep your legs 4-5 feet apart. Raise your arms in line with your shoulders, palms facing down.
- Exhale, turn your right foot 90 degrees to the right. Slightly turn your left foot inwards 60 degrees to the right. Your right heel must be in line with left heel.
- Bend your right knee; form a 90-degree angle between the thigh and calf. Your right knee must align over the heel. Your calf should be perpendicular to the floor.
- Stretch your left leg; tighten at the knee.
- Exhale and turn your torso towards your right thigh and bring the left arm to the outside of your bent knee. Place your left palm on the floor.
- Ideally, the outer side of the right knee is covered with the left armpit.
- Now, stretch out your right arm over your right ear with your palm facing down. Turn your head up and look straight.
- Hold the final position for a few seconds.
- Lift your palm off the floor, release the twist, straighten your leg and come back to the starting position.
- Beginners can practise once on each side. Once you gain more strength and flexibility, extend duration and repetitions.

BENEFITS

- Contracts abdominal organs, therefore, aids digestion.
- Directs blood flow in the abdominal and spinal region.
- Stretches and strengthens the knees, ankles and thighs.
- Gives a good stretch to lungs, groin, spine, shoulder and abdomen.
- Removes excess fat around the waist and hips.
- Beneficial for those suffering from sciatica pain.
- Prevents osteoporosis and relieves lower back pain.

LIMITATIONS

- Avoid practising this in case of severe pain in the neck, back or shoulders.
- If you suffer from frequent headaches, high/low BP, migraine, insomnia, joint pain, cervical spondylitis or heart problem, avoid this.

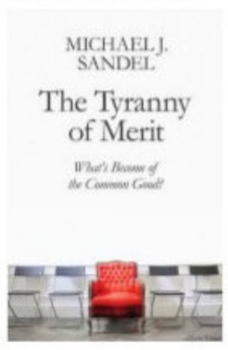
THE TYRANNY OF MERIT: WHAT'S BECOME OF THE COMMON GOOD?

Author: Michael J. Sandel
No. of pages: 288



Through book author Micheal J Sandel explains these times for democracy as dangerous where where the odds are stacked in favour of the already fortunate.. And the consequence is a brew of anger and frustration that has fuelled populist protest, with the triumph of Brexit and election of Donald Trump. Sandel argues that to overcome the polarised politics of our time, one must rethink the attitudes toward success and failure that have accompanied globalisation and rising inequality. He offers an alternative way of thinking about success - more attentive to the role of luck in human affairs, more conducive to an ethic of humility, and more hospitable to a politics of the common good.

VOICE FROM THE PAST

Monika Monalisa

While Saeeda Bano is known as the first Indian woman Urdu newsreader at All India Radio, her granddaughter Shahana Raza, who recently translated Bano's autobiography, says she remembers her as a "cool kind of granny". Excerpts from an interview with the Dubai-based filmmaker about her book, Off the Beaten Track (Penguin, ₹499):

How do you remember Saeeda Bano?
I thought Saeeda Bano (Bibi) was rather forthright. She could drive, had travelled the world, lived alone, even tied her sari in an unconventional manner – pallu draped over right shoulder. She wore ultra-soft net dupattas, mostly pastels or shades of purple and lavender, which were her favourite colours. She had a fascinating VHS collection of old black-and-white movies, and admired actor Greta Garbo. Eid at her place was always special. We met extended family members, her friends, and could bring our own. Of course, the tastiest of Lucknawi food was prepared – shaami kababs, mutton biryani, yakhni pulao...!

What kind of relationship did you share with your grandmother?
Grandchildren usually visit grandparents with their parents, or get to spend quality time with them if they live in the same city. I grew up in Lucknow, Bibi was always in Delhi, and given that my parents were divorced, I didn't get to spend as much time with her as a kid, though we visited her briefly during school vacations. Despite this, when I shifted to Delhi to do my bachelor's, we gradually managed to create a strong bond with each other.

> I remember how charismatic Bibi was socially. And, the flair, the utter ease with which she could recite the perfect Persian/ Urdu couplet at the most opportune time... I wish I could do that!
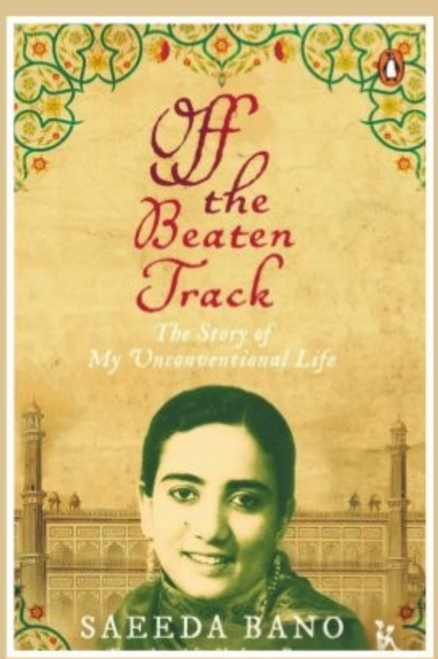
> —Shahana Raza, filmmaker



Your grandmother was a pathbreaker of sorts during her time. What do you think helped her in her journey?
For one, growing up in a city like Bhopal, the only Indian state ruled by women for four successive generations. In the book, Bibi describes in fascinating detail the lasting impact this simple fact had on her and the psyche of women in Bhopal. They were confident, self-reliant and could move out of their homes without depending on a man despite being in purdah. Nawab Sultan Jahan Begum had started schools for girls. Bibi and her sister were privileged to be educated, not only because they were born in Bhopal but also because, and this is equally important, their father was a forward-thinking man.

Saeeda Bano had quite an eventful life both personally and professionally. Is there anything that you want to imbibe from her?
By the time I came to Delhi, she had retired. I didn't get to see her in a professional role. But I do remember how charismatic she was socially. And, the flair, the utter ease with which she could recite the perfect Persian/Urdu couplet at the most opportune time... I wish I could do that!

Your grandmother joined AIR in 1945. Do you think she got her fair share of fame?
Definitely not. There is such little information out there about her. I have read articles about 'pioneering 20th century women' or 'Muslim women feminists' but there is no mention of her. In 2001, when she passed away, the I&B Ministry did release a few lines as her obituary.

Did knowing her personally lend an advantage while translating the book?
Definitely yes. Knowing Bibi well and the cultural background she came from, I could quite vividly 'see' what her life in Lucknow must have been like. I was also raised in Lucknow, though of course many years later. And I was more than familiar with the kind of lifestyle she was leading in Delhi. While translating, many a times I could visualise her in a particular situation, I could imagine her body language, her facial expressions... What was difficult was finding the appropriate English words to convey the emotions she expressed so fluidly in Urdu.

Shahana Raza

Jai Mahishmathi!' the crowd roared.

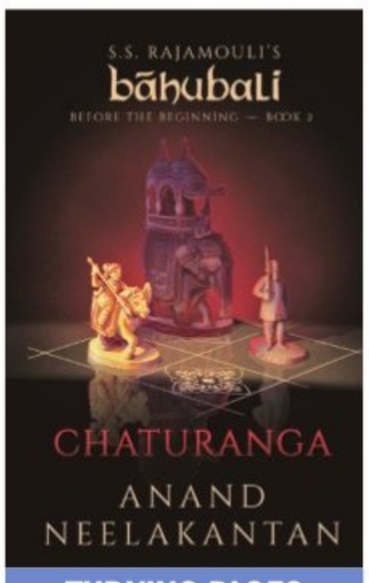
The arena was the same, the king was the same, and the chants were the same. 'Kill the traitor!'

'Traitor, traitor, traitor!' 'Jai Mahishmathi!' the crowds screamed. Thirteen years have made no difference, thought Sivagami. People were still bloodthirsty. It didn't matter who killed whom. It was just entertainment for them. The rulers knew this well, and used it to control people, to keep them subservient. They regularly arranged these spectacles for the crowds because they helped to instil a sense of pride for their nation. Once that pride was born, it didn't matter whether they starved like dogs or lived like pigs; they still felt their country was the best in the world, that their ruler was their god, and they, the ruler's blind devotees.

Sivagami stood in the arena, gripping her sword tight. They had brought him in chains and freed him before her. He looked tired. When their eyes met, he smiled, and her heart sunk. 'Uncle Thimma, forgive me,' she whispered as she stole a glance at the maharaja of Mahishmathi. He was sitting on his throne, his arms resting on the lion-shaped armrests, and his eagle eyes watching her.

'Redeem yourself, girl,' someone cried. 'Prove you aren't a traitor like your father.'

Sivagami had one chance. She had to be careful. There was a way to save Thimma. A risky way, an insane one, but that was her only chance. When Maharaja Somadeva had told her to kill Thimma, Sivagami had asked for a duel for a reason. She might be dead by evening, but she was determined to avenge her father's murder by taking out the man who was responsible for it before dying. That would be her redemption. She had unknowingly prevented Thimma from doing it by ending the coup. Now, she would do it for her father and Uncle Thimma.



TURNING PAGES

'Sivagami had asked for a duel for a reason'

She didn't care who ruled this blasted country after that. But the evil man who was responsible for all of this had to die. She closed her eyes in prayer, trying to push away the fear that was creeping up her spine. 'Amma Gauri, I promise Maharaja Somadeva will not see tomorrow's sunset,' she whispered.

Just then, she saw soldiers bringing Akhila and Bhama to the arena. They were in chains. Maharaja Somadeva called out, 'Thimma, for old times' sake, I shall grant you this. You lose, you die at the hands of your foster daughter. You win, you still die in the gallows. But, if you win, I shall pardon your wife and daughter.'

Thimma's face was impassive.

Sivagami's heart sank as she looked at Bhama and Akhila. She hoped she would lose to her foster father. How else would she face Akhila? She turned towards Maharaja Somadeva, who was smiling smugly. Somadeva, the God—an omniscient, omnipotent, evil God. Everything was his leela, a play.

Like all gods, he rejoiced in the misery of those who depended on him. Inflicting misery was the mark of power. God is power. Power is God. She gritted her teeth and gripped her sword. Somadeva may seem omnipotent, but he was no immortal.

The conch sounded the beginning of the duel and the crowd exploded with joy. It would be a bloody show, where a daughter would fight her foster father and kill or be killed by him.

Downpours and dampened spirits

Perhaps the first poem I ever learnt in life was 'Rain rain, go away!'. The poem asked children to demand in unison that the rains go away because little Johnny wanted to play. A few years later, I'd wonder if Spain was an enemy country. Why not just ask the unwanted rains to go to Pakistan instead?

I have never been a fan of the rainy season. In spite of all the hype and hyperbole around rains in cinema, literature and poetry, I never bought into the logic of rains being beautiful. Certain sections of the society love the rains. Radio jockeys, I assume, get yearly bonuses in rainy seasons. As soon as clouds loom over the city, radio jockeys begin chirping about rains, love and love-songs.

Films have done their bit of romanticising of the rains too. Major plot-points in our films are driven around rains. Rains often spark passion between the hero and heroines, and I often wonder why the rain gods aren't mentioned in the closing credits as supporting actors. The crackling of thunder often means the leads are going to hug each other, and a baby would arrive by the end of the song. Poetry hypes up the rains too. All the talk of the smell of first rains on mud, the anthropomorphism of rains, clouds and moon to fit a certain mood.

Poets spend their entire lives looking for different ways to describe 'petrichor' – the smell of rain on mud. In Indian mythology, Indra – the God of Rains – is shown to be a moody god. While not as revered as other gods in the Hindu pantheon, Indra features in a number of action-packed stories seeking the help of other gods to save his throne. Perhaps the modern equivalent of Indra is the Indian Meteorological Department. They are only spoken about when there are heavy rains or floods, and never mentioned in ordinary circumstances.

The last few days have proven that all it takes is one heavy spate of rains to take us a few decades back. The roads look like the sets of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, and vehicles switch from cruise-mode to float-mode. If you are a pedestrian, you might as well stay indoors. The present levels of protection against rains – raincoats and umbrellas – are no good against heavy rains. While raincoats might look insulated and snug from the outside, all it takes is one drop of water to enter hidden crevices in your body. Umbrellas look good in British TV shows, but it takes one rider-on-the-storm to zoom past you in a car, and you're given an unwanted abhishekam! The rains have usually been gloomy and depressing for me.

Which is when it struck me, that only rich people romanticise the rains as beautiful and life-changing. For ordinary folks going about their lives, the rains are a nuisance. But since the movers and shakers of society do not have to move or shake during the rains, they can only hear the pitter-patter of raindrops and smell the petrichor. But for ordinary people like me, the onset of rains means having to cancel all my appointments, stay cooped up at home, and wait for the rains to end. If I were to go back to my primary school and meet the kids there, I'd teach them a new version of the popular nursery rhyme. Rain, rain go away; I have got bills to pay. Rain, rain go away; go to where the rich people stay.

Shivarajkumar teaming up with Yogaraj Bhat for a project has been in the news for some time, and now the Century Star has given a green signal to Bhatru's script. The project is expected to create a stir among fans since it will have Shivanna and Prabhudeva sharing screen space. A confirmation about this comes from Shivanna himself, who told CE that he has okayed the script, and that he is looking forward to working with Prabhudeva as well as the director.

"Yogaraj Bhat has penned an exceptional story. What makes the storyline unique is that he has balanced both the characters -- Prabhudeva's and mine -- and the affection element adds a lot of weightage to the whole film," says Shivanna, adding, "Even Prabhudeva has heard the script and he has liked it." Prabhudeva, who hails from Mysuru, is a noted actor and director in the south Indian film industry and Bollywood. The actor is known for his role in the Kannada film, H20, in which he shared screen space with Upendra and Priyanka. And the Heaven goes to...

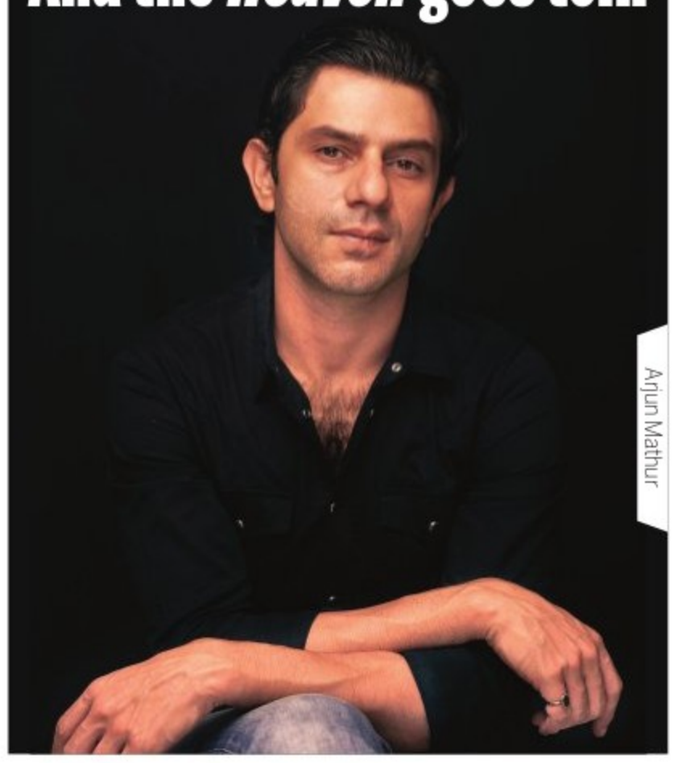
• Shilajit Mitra

Arjun Mathur was alerted to his International Emmy nomination by actor Sayani Gupta. She had called him up and asked if he'd heard the news. "These days, the word 'news' only creates panic," he jokes. "So it took me a while to realise what had happened. But I'm enjoying the feeling now."

Arjun is the only Indian actor to be nominated in the Best Actor category this year for Made in Heaven (2019). Along with him, the Netflix series Delhi Crime and the Amazon show Four More Shots Please have been nominated in the Best Drama and Best Comedy categories, respectively. Last year, Netflix's Sacred Games and Amazon's The Remix had received Emmy nods, besides Radhika Apte for Best Actress for Lust Stories. Collectively, these honours indicate a global recognition of the OTT boom in India. For Arjun, though, the victory is more personal.

"I've been acting for 13 years now," he says. "I've had my moments of insecurity, doubt, and envy. In the course of following your heart, you end up questioning yourself. So when something like this comes along, there's no better affirmation that what you have been doing is right."

Arjun had moved to Mumbai in 2002 after graduating from Lee Strasberg. One of his earliest appearances was in the short film Positive, directed by Farhan Akhtar. Farhan would later be his co-star in Luck By Chance (2009), where they both played struggling actors in Mumbai. Still, it would be a decade before he reunited with the Akhtars again. That happened in 2019, when he was cast as an ambitious wedding planner in Made in Heaven. The show, which also starred Sobhita Dhulipala, was co-created by Zoya Akhtar and produced by Farhan's Excel Entertainment.



Arjun Mathur

"Both Zoya and Farhan have always supported me," Arjun shares. "Earlier, because of market and box-office limitations, they couldn't cast me in a more substantial role. But the moment they got that chance with Made in Heaven, they reached out."

In the show, Arjun portrayed Karan Mehra, a gay entrepreneur organising glitzy weddings for Delhi's rich and elite. The performance, along with several others, is credited for a new mainstreaming of queer characters in India.

"I deny it when people call Karan a complex part," Arjun says. "Of course, since I'm straight and heterosexual, I felt a little out of my element in the intimate scenes. But beyond that, it was one of the simplest roles I've done." He calls for more gay characters to be normalised on screen. "So far, we've largely seen straight actors playing gay parts in India. I'd love to see more gay actors come out and represent themselves on screen."

Through the lockdown, Arjun appeared in the DIY shows, Home Stories and Gone Game. He was also meant to start Made in Heaven season 2, which was put on hold. "There are two more films and another show on the cards," he reveals. "Whoever resumes production first, I'll be ready."

The New Mutants to release in India on Oct 30

• CE Features

Maisie Williams-starrer, The New Mutants, will finally release in India on October 30.

The film, which was being pushed repeatedly owing to the COVID-19 pandemic, narrates the story of five young mutants on their path to discover their superhuman abilities. The horror-thriller superhero flick is set in an isolated hospital where young mutants are held for psychiatric monitoring.

A new poster shows Williams' character Wolfsbane with Mirage (played by Blu Hunt), Magik (Anya Taylor-Joy), Cannonball (Charlie Heaton), and Sunspot (Henry Zaga).

Based on the comic-book series of the same name, the Josh Boone directorial is was originally slated to open in 2018.

Earlier this year, in an interview with variety.com, Williams had opened up about the delays in release. "I knew that they spent $80 million on it, so I thought, if this movie never comes out, that is such a huge waste of money that really could have made a huge impact in the world. I'm so glad that it is coming out, finally. I hope that people enjoy it. I did definitely think in the middle that maybe it would go straight to streaming. But it's going to come out in the theatre, so I hope that maybe we'll get a good turnout. I don't know if anyone's really going outside," Williams had said.

Dominic West to play Prince Charles in The Crown

• CE Features

Actor Dominic West joins the cast of Netflix's The Crown, and he will be playing the role of Prince Charles in the final two seasons.

Sources told Variety that West, best known for The Wire and The Affair, is in discussions for the part, though the deal is yet to be sealed.

The actor will take over from Josh O'Connor, who has played the character in season three and the upcoming season four of the Emmy-winning royal period drama.

West will star opposite Elizabeth Debicki who is set to play Princess Diana in seasons five and six. The final two chapters, which will take the royal family into the 1990s and early 2000s, will feature Imelda Staunton as Queen Elizabeth II, Jonathan Pryce as Prince Philip, and Lesley Manville as Princess Margaret.

Meanwhile, the fourth season of The Crown features Oscar winner Olivia Colman as UK monarch Queen Elizabeth II, Tobias Menzies as Prince Philip and Helena Bonham Carter as Princess Margaret.

Emma Corrin will be introduced as Princess Diana and Gillian Anderson will star as former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in season four.

Created by Peter Morgan, the new season of The Crown is slated to start streaming from November 15.
